Stevenson Wins Nomination on 3rd Ballot

Slash in Defense Budget Might Affect Workers at Electrol Plant

Jet Firm President Sees Danger in Cut

A proposal now before Congress to limit the expenditures for defense to not more than $46 billions in the fiscal year 1953, may seriously affect local workmen who are now engaged in defense work.

Very seriously affected should Congress approve the proposed amendment to the appropriations bill for the Department of Defense, would be the employees of Electrol, Inc., who are engaged in defense work, a spokesman for the Grand street plant said.

Electrol, Inc., does a vast amount of work for Republic Aviation Corporation of Farmingdale, L. I., builders of the Republic jet planes widely used in Korea.

Included in the appropriations bill for the Department of Defense for the fiscal year 1953 is all funds for the army, navy and air force in the year beginning July 1. A proposal has been made by Representatives Howard W. Smith (D) of Virginia and Fred R. Coudert (R) of New York to amend the bill so that defense may not expend more than $46 billions in the coming year.

The Department of Defense, acting for the army, navy and air force, has asked for $52 billions.

Points Out Faulty Reasoning
Mundy I. Peale, president of Republic Aviation Corporation, after a study of the effect of the amendment on the over-all defense build-up, holds that there has been a great many misunderstandings in the public mind about the disbursement of Congressional appropriations and has made a report on what the amendment would do to the defense effort in the coming third year of the build-up when the needed quantities of all sorts of weapons are just beginning to come off the production lines and what the effect would be in the next two or three years when the production of the nation may be even greater.

Reports state that the Russian-built MIG-15 now outnumber U. S. planes in Korea. Air supremacy is absolutely necessary for the protection of our interests in Korea. A goal of 143 wings by late in 1955 or early 1956 is the "bare minimum" of security according to air leaders.

Planes Take Time
Peale points out the long and complicated process of producing a plane from the drawing board state to the finished product. World War 2 was fought with planes designed as far back as 1935 and the F-48 Thunderjet of today was designed back in 1945 and 1946. Fighter planes are two years from the drawing board to production line and large planes take longer.

Peale calls attention to the misunderstanding of the appropriations for the Department of Defense since the war in Korea began.

People see in the fiscal year 1951 the department got an appropriation of $48.2 billions and paid out only $15.2 billions of it and in 1952 got $60.9 billions and paid out only $15.2 billions. Because of the element of time consumed to produce planes it is frequently four years before the dollar appropriated in any one year will be paid out on contracts already in effect.

Cancellations Would Be Costly
To cancel contracts now in effect for planes would cost as much as the total value of the contracts in many cases and there would be no planes, Peale points out. Aviation companies would be left with a multitude of parts from suppliers which would be of no value but would have to be paid for.

Right now we have about 80 combat wings, of which about half are completely modernized with jet aircraft. By this time next year it is planned to have 96 wings, most of which will be supplied with up-to-date planes. Peale holds that any cut in appropriations for the 1953 fiscal year would defeat our aim and need for a 143 wing air force by 1955 or early 1956.

Copies of the Peale report, "What is the truth about Buying Air Power" have been sent to Electrol.

Labor Chairman Dies

New York, July 26 (AP)—Keith Lorenz, 62, chairman of the New York State Labor Relations Board and the state committee for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for president, died last night. Lorenz suffered a heart attack at the Eisenhower campaign headquarters and succumbed later at St. Luke's Hospital. A former assistant U. S. attorney for the southern district of the city of New York, he was a member of the law firm of Lorenz, Finn and Lorenz since 1923.

Bush Is Elected New President of County Volunteers

Harder, DuBois Named to 11th, 6th Terms as Secretary and Treasurer

Percy Bush of Ulster Hose, town of Ulster, was elected president of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's convention during the second session of the 17th annual parley Friday night in Saugerties.

Bush, who succeeds George Gardiner in the top post, had served as vice-president of the organization during the past year.

Today's big parade, scheduled to start at 2 o'clock, winds up the convention proceedings. About 1,500 marchers were expected to participate.

Welcomes Delegates

Mayor George Holmes of Saugerties gave the address of welcome to between 200 and 250 delegates at last night's session and urged his listeners to support the new slate of officers during the coming year's work.

Other officers named at Friday's meeting included Leon Keator, New Paltz, first vice-president; Ralph Clark, Marlborough, second vice-president; Fred Harder, Kingston, reelected to his 11th term as secretary; and Henry DuBois, New Paltz, reelected to his sixth term as treasurer.

Edward Mains of Port Ewen was elected director to serve five years.

New working committees for the volunteer organization will be named at the August meeting, Secretary Harder announced this morning.

Badges Presented

Morton Finch of Kingston, a member of the board of directors, presented President-elect Bush with the president's badge and also presented the past president's badge to Gardiner, the retiring head.

Two Scratched Cars Reported to Police

Two cases of "scratched" cars were reported to city police Friday and Saturday.

Vincent Brooks, 44 Boulevard, reported that a maroon car passed him on Hasbrouck avenue on the inside early Saturday morning, slightly "scratched" his 1941 coupe and continued without stopping.

William Stueding, 79 Grand street, reported that he scratched the rear fender and door on the left side of another vehicle at North Front street near Wall about 2:55 p. m. Friday and that he had been unable to locate the driver.

Ike Keeps Silent About Stevenson

Denver, July 26 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower deferred comment today on nomination of Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois as the Democratic presidential nominee—and on President Truman's fighting speech blasting the Republicans.

Campaign headquarters of the general, the GOP presidential candidate, indicated he might have something to say later in the day, after the Democratic National Convention nominates a Stevenson running mate.

There was no inclination in the Eisenhower camp to look for anything but a difficult campaign against Stevenson.

Eisenhower and his vice-presidential running mate, Sen. Richard N. Nixon of California, will meet tomorrow to chart campaign strategy for the fight against the Democratic ticket.

Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., Harriman's campaign manager, told permanent Chairman Sam Rayburn that state Chairman Paul E. Fitzpatrick had a statement to make.

Reads Surrender

Fitzpatrick came to platform and read Harriman's statement of surrender and endorsement of Stevenson for the nomination.

That broke the seeming log-jam of candidates Kefauver, Russell and Stevenson. Actually, the nomination of the urbane governor of the robust prairie state had been in the works.

When New York finally was reached on the roll call, Sen. Herbert H. Lehman, chairman of the delegation and another champion of Harriman's lost cause, announced the vote as 86½ for Stevenson, four for Sen. Estes Kefauver and three for Oscar R. Ewing.

Adam Clayton Powell of Manhattan, a delegate-at-large, abstained from voting. He wasn't around at the moment, but it was reported he wasn't quite satisfied

Steel Strike Ends But Mills Are Idle

Blast Furnaces Remain Banked and Pickets Surround Plants Despite Agreement Between Union and Producers

Washington, July 26 (AP)—The nation's steel mills were still idle today, despite a strike-end agreement reached at the White House and ratified last night by the union's policy committee.

CIO President Philip Murray and the executives of six major steel producers signed the White House memorandum of agreement which stated unequivocally the strike "will end" upon ratification by the steelworkers' 175-man policy committee.

Yet the day after that unanimous ratification, striking CIO steelworkers still manned picket lines. Banked blast furnaces which the industry had said would be fired last night were still cool. And the strike, already the longest in the nation's steel history, entered its 55th day.

Both Sides Eager

Neither side, however, expected the impasse to continue long. Circumstances surrounding the Thursday agreement indicated eagerness on both sides to restore production as soon as possible.

But industry officials said they were "amazed and disillusioned" at the unexpected development. The fly in the ointment was not the critical dispute which set off the steel strike on June 2. It was, rather, a companion strike of 23,000 iron ore workers in Minnesota far from the heart of the nation's biggest industry.

These are workers, who are members of the Steelworkers' Union, walked off the job a few hours after the steelworkers struck. They demanded the same wage and other concessions asked by the steelworkers together with elimination of wage differentials between themselves and the steelworkers, whose pay rates are considerably higher.

The agreement signed at the White House had two parts: one between the union and the big six; the other between the union and the Oliver Iron Mining Division of U. S. Steel.

The union-big six agreement included a 16-cent hourly wage boost, effective last March 1, plus slightly more than five cents additional in fringe benefits, as well as a modified form of union shop giving new employees the right to withdraw from the union and old members who are not members the right to stay out.

The union-Oliver pact included nearly all the terms of the basic agreement, plus a separate condition committing the industry to eliminate "in part" the wage differential "as of the end of the strike" and the balance next July 1.

Pact Includes Terms

The latter pact included nearly all the terms in the basic steel agreement, plus a separate condition which committed the industry to eliminate "in part" the wage differential "as of the end of the strike" and the balance next July 1.

He declared that "as a piece of ground" it was not worth the price but as "a matter of policy" it was.

"There's a limit to how far you can allow yourself to be pushed," he said, "around the two hills slacked off, but throughout the night U. S. artillery roared to keep the Communists 'buttoned up.'"

Writer Points Out Stevenson Quality As Choice of Party

Lawrence Calls Speech Brilliant; Culture, Insight Impresses Convention

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Chicago, Ill., July 26—The strange demand of an "honest-to-goodness draft" gave Governor Adlai Stevenson the Democratic nomination for the presidency—but it was a draft that was visible to the naked eye for many weeks. This was because he was head and shoulders above every other man suggested, and from every political angle he fitted the bill. His nomination was a "natural."

The speech of acceptance Stevenson delivered to the delegates promptly verified their hopes and expectations: a masterfully written address, brilliant in phrasing but even more powerful in its high plane of thought.

The contrast between Harry Truman, the outgoing President, and Adlai Stevenson, the new leader of the Democratic party, was so conspicuous that it almost tells the story of why there is a feeling of confidence among the delegates that they will win in November.

Needs No Ghost Writers

For here is a man of broad education and culture, a man of deep and penetrating insight, and a man who doesn't believe that everything a politician does is right. No "ghost writer" wrote that acceptance speech for Adlai Stevenson, and no ghost writers will be needed if he gets to the White House. For Adlai Stevenson is capable of writing speeches that are reminiscent of the pen of Woodrow Wilson.

The Republicans may as well realize it—they have a serious contender in Governor Stevenson—a man who can be witty and satirical as well as profound, and who has an understanding of national and international questions that will soon be apparent as he unfolds his campaign.

Governor Stevenson is so different from Harry Truman that it can be said already that the new nominee, if elected, will represent quite a change in the climate of the White House. The Chief Executive who has been in the White House for more than seven years.

'Refreshing Change'

Adlai Stevenson was given the nomination without a single deal or pledge or commitment. He didn't want to run but mostly, as he explains it, because he stood in awe of the office of president. Now that he has been chosen, he will make an intensive campaign. It will probably be an intellectually honest campaign. In the word "intellectual" may be found the key to the Stevenson personality. He is a man of parts who knows governmental principles and the philosophy of government as well as any man in public life. He is a refreshing change from the ordinary legislator or politician. He doesn't use the clichés or bromides of the modern political vocabulary. Nor does he think in the devious ways of the political opportunist.

But the ground swell inside the Democratic convention which resulted in Stevenson's nomination was not the only constructive result. The development of a spirit of harmony between the southern and northern conservatives really brought the south back into the fold with enthusiasm. The northern radicals nearly wrecked all this with the plan they championed to unseat the Virginia, South Carolina and Louisiana delegations. But the older and more experienced hands in some of the larger delegations, led by Jim Farley, steered the convention away from some of its youthful excesses.

Sparkman Is Likely For No. 2 Position

Convention Hall, Chicago, July 26 (AP)—The Democratic presidential nomination, hotly pursued by others in months of hard primary campaigning, went to Adlai Stevenson early today in a breath-taking three-ballot finish.

Stevenson was the man who said he didn't want it, who didn't lift a finger to get it.

But having been chosen by acclamation, after a nip and tuck battle with two close-running contenders, the 52-year-old governor of Illinois went before the national convention and promised to fight for election "with all my heart and soul."

The calm, measured statements of Stevenson's acceptance speech contrasted sharply with the hectic, hurried maneuvers climaxed by his nomination at 12:27 a. m. (EST).

At the finish, Stevenson's chief rivals—Sens. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Richard Russell of Georgia—went before the wildly cheering convention to capitulate. Both stood by, waiting to speak, during the roll call on the third and final ballot. Kefauver had led the first and second, with Russell third behind Stevenson. But after a dinner recess, the die was cast.

The two-hour break gave party leaders—including President Truman—who had flown in—a chance to get their heads together. Averell Harriman dropped out of the race, releasing New York's big delegation, and that was that.

New York and then Massachusetts, freed by Gov. Paul Dever, went to Stevenson. At the end of the roll call he had rolled up 613 votes—just 2½ short of the necessary majority. Then Utah switched and put him over the top.

Today Stevenson picks a running mate to help him "talk sense to the American people" in the campaign to keep the presidency in Democratic hands.

May Choose Sparkman

Reportedly the No. two place may go to Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama.

Aides said this choice was in line with the governor's determination to have a southerner "to strengthen me and our party immeasurably in the hard, implacable work that lies ahead for all of us."

Passed over in this reported decision were:

Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, who ran third to Stevenson in the final balloting but who says he is "uninterested" in the vice presidency.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, who had to give up his immediate dream of the White House on his 49th birthday. Said Kefauver: "I have never considered the vice presidency and am not now."

Vice President Alben Barkley, who was 74 was called too old by some labor union leaders for the presidential nomination and withdrew, but whose name still was entered in the unequal contest for top place.

Leaders called sleepy-eyed delegates back (11 a. m., EST) after only an eight-hour rest from their roaring reception of the party's new nominee in this smoke-hazed convention hall early this morning.

All the delegates had to do was to formalize Stevenson's choice of his running mate, since every one of the possible aspirants for the job made it clear he would bow to the governor's wishes.

In Sparkman, Stevenson would be getting as his helper a man of his own age, with somewhat comparable experience in United Nations affairs and the same stand on foreign and most domestic policies—but with widely different views on civil rights issues.

Sparkman would give the deep south a place on the ticket for the first time in modern politics—a circumstance which seemed dictated in part by the appeal that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee, is reputed to have in Dixieland.

This new accession-on-youth ticket promised to give the Democratic party a new look. Stevenson may start revamping its organization today by naming a new national chairman to replace Frank E. McKinney.

Keynotes Own Campaign

The Illinois governor, whose bandwagon rolled over Kefauver and Russell in tense convention balloting after Averell Harriman of New York had withdrawn, keynoted his own campaign in his acceptance speech early today.

"More important than winning the election is governing the nation," he told the Democrats solemnly. "That is the test of a political party—the acid, final test."

"When the tumult and the shouting die, when the bands are

He'll Accept

JOHN J. SPARKMAN

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama said today that "word has come to me" that Adlai E. Stevenson wants him as his running mate for vice president and that "I will accept" if the convention nominates him.

Sparkman said he has authorized Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama to place his name in nomination. He added: "I have not conferred directly with Gov. Stevenson but word has come to me that he would like to have me on the ticket. If the convention nominates me with Stevenson I will accept."

Received Hand Injury

John Freer, 51, Woodstock, received a slight injury to his hand and was treated by the family physician following an accident on the Onetara Trail at West Hurley Friday about 10:45 p. m. State police from the Kingston station investigated and reported the Freer car and that of Kenneth Mills, 27, Woodside, had collided. The Mills car, traveling west was hit on the left rear, side and front by the right of the Freer car. The Freer car then turned over on the right of the road. The accident happened just above the Zena intersection.

But having been chosen by acclamation, after a nip and tuck battle with two close-running contenders, the 52-year-old governor of Illinois went before the national convention and promised to fight for election "with all my heart and soul."

The calm, measured statements of Stevenson's acceptance speech contrasted sharply with the hectic, hurried maneuvers climaxed by his nomination at 12:27 a. m. (EST).

At the finish, Stevenson's chief rivals—Sens. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Richard Russell of Georgia—went before the wildly cheering convention to capitulate.

Both stood by, waiting to speak, during the roll call on the third and final ballot. Kefauver had led the first and second, with Russell third behind Stevenson. But after a dinner recess, the die was cast.

The two-hour break gave party leaders—including President Truman who had flown in—a chance to get their heads together. Averell Harriman dropped out of the race, releasing New York's big delegation, and that was that.

New York and then Massachusetts, freed by Gov. Paul Dever, went to Stevenson. At the end of the roll call he had rolled up 613 votes—just 2½ short of the necessary majority. Then Utah switched and put him over the top.

Today Stevenson picks a running mate to help him "talk sense to the American people" in the campaign to keep the presidency in Democratic hands.

May Choose Sparkman

Reportedly the No. 2 place may go to Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama.

Sen. Sparkman said this choice was in line with the governor's determination to have a southerner "to strengthen me and our party immeasurably in the hard, implacable work that lies ahead for all of us."

Passed over in this reported decision were:

Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, who ran third to Stevenson in the final balloting but who says he is "uninterested" in the vice presidency.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, who had to give up his immediate dream of the White House on his 49th birthday. Sen. Kefauver: "I have never considered the vice presidency and am not now."

Vice President Alben Barkley, who at 74 was called too old by some labor union leaders for the presidential nomination and withdrew, but whose name still was entered in the unequal contest for top place.

Leads called sleepy-eyed delegates back (11 a. m. EST) after only an eight-hour rest from their roiling reception of the party's new nominee in this smoke-hazed convention hall early this morning.

All the delegates had to do was to formalize Stevenson's choice of his running mate, since every one of the possible aspirants for the job made it clear he would bow to the governor's wishes.

In Sparkman, Stevenson would be getting as his helper a man of his own age, with somewhat comparable experience in United Nations affairs and the same stand on foreign and most domestic policies—but with widely different views on civil rights issues.

Sparkman would give the deep south a place on the ticket for the first time in modern politics—a circumstance which seemed dictated in part by the appeal that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee, is reputed to have in Dixieland.

This new accent-on-youth ticket promised to give the Democratic party a new look. Stevenson may start revamping its organization today by naming a new national chairman to replace Frank E. McKinney.

Keynotes Own Campaign

The Illinois governor, whose bandwagon rolled over Kefauver and Russell in tense convention balloting after Averell Harriman of New York had withdrawn, keynoted his own campaign in his acceptance speech early today.

"More important than winning the election is governing the nation," he told the Democrats solemnly. "That is the test of a political party—the acid, final test."

"When the tumult and the shouting die, when the bands are

Your Life and Mine

by CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

THE HOUSE WITH THE GLEAMING WINDOWS

Have you ever wished that you lived in somebody else's house, had somebody else's problems to face instead of your own, could swap your burdens for someone else's? If you haven't you aren't quite human. For all of us, I surmise, have at one time or another harbored that wish, entertained that longing, worshipped at the shrine of that enticing possibility.

There are two things one can say about that wish which are apt to be pretty close to the truth. One is that the other fellow's lot—the very one you covet—is not as easy and as burdensome as you think it is. He undoubtedly has his cares and trials of which you are completely unaware. So many of our heaviest burdens of life are all but invisible to the other fellow. Thus we may make the mistake of judging him happy when, in reality, he may be the most miserable, discontented man in the whole neighborhood.

The other thing to say is that quite as heavy as your situation quite as hopeless as you surmise them to be. No trial is ever quite as bad as we think it is in our most discouraged moments. The down-cast spirit makes every difficulty and every perplexity seem worse than they really are.

The chances are, a hundred to one that if you could move into your neighbor's house, taking unto yourself all that weighs him down, before nightfall of the first day you would be longing for the chance to move back into your own again.

A boy who lived in the mountains was fascinated by a house on the opposite side of the valley. Each evening its windows were sheets of shining gold. Unable to resist the temptation, he made his way across the valley toward the house. But the path was rough and in exhaustion he lay down and slept. Early the next morning he hurried to the house. Instead of sheets of gold, the windows were but ordinary glass. Disappointed and bitter, he turned toward home, then stopped in surprise. Across the valley, the house he lived in was aglow with windows of gold.

You will do a little investigation and you will discover something you had never realized before; namely, that you are living—right this very minute—in the house with the gleaming windows.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I had a very pleasant surprise today. Mrs. (Ruth Scott) Herbert Bird phoned me to tell me she had a boxful of interesting items to show me. Mrs. Bird now lives in Ellensburg, Washington. Her father the late Irving Scott was well known on The Strand and in Rondout. He worked in Johnstone's hardware store on The Strand for years as bookkeeper and when it got busy he would come out and wait on trade. I remember he often waited on me. After Johnstone's store closed he went to work for Canfield's Supply Co. His father, William B. Scott, together with George Weber years back owned the famous Washington Hall on Abel street. Ruth Scott, her mother, Bird's side is related to the Canfield family. I wish I had a chance to talk longer to Mrs. Bird as she had so many interesting things to tell me.

One of the booklets she left covers "The Oriental Opera, Egypt" given at the Kingston Opera House, on March 11th and 12th, 1902. It was given under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of the YMCA. It seems it had a Kingston staff of artists, although the pictures do not seem to be of local people. Harry P. Dodge was the accompanist. Dr. G. H. Van Gaasbeek was the Harpist of Egypt. Harold Stiles played the Prince. Dr. C. H. Bishop was the Priest of Midian. Beatrice Teetsel was Miriam. Perhaps some folks remember it. In the list of "grand chorus of children" I see the name of Ethel Hull.

The booklet was printed at the Freeman, illustrated and on good paper. Although a half century has gone by it is as good today as the day it came off the Freeman press. Experts are gathering in Cincinnati today from all over the country to play in the annual national championship. Among the earnest competitors at the tournament will be Joseph M. Cohan, of Wooster, Ohio, president of the American Contract Bridge League.

Cohan, a genial Irishman, is a first class player as well as one of the most popular men in bridge circles. Today's hand shows him at his most artful, stealing a game from under the noses of his opponents.

West opened the king of hearts, and dummy won with the ace. The "normal" play of leading a trump to the king would have led to a defeat at once, but Cohan avoided this pitfall neatly by leading a club to the ace and returning a low trump from his hand. West played the nine of spades, dummy put up the jack, and East won with the queen. East returned a heart, and South ruffed. South had been clear to him that he played the king from dummy. East won with the ace of diamonds and carelessly returned the nine of hearts.

When declarer ruffed with the seven of spades, West over-ruffed with the ace, and this play of course clarified the trump situation.

West hopefully returned a club but South won with the king and entered dummy with the ten of diamonds in order to take a trump finesse through East's ten. He was thus able to draw trumps without further loss and ran the rest of the tricks with diamonds.

East should have beaten the contract of course by returning diamonds after taking his ace. It should have been clear to him that his partner had a fast entry with a high trump, and that he would therefore be able to get a diamond ruff to defeat the contract.

Asks $625 Million
Washington, July 26 (AP)—France has asked the United States for 625 million dollars to step up arms production and meet its military goals under the North Atlantic Treaty defense plan. This is more than half the $1,282,000,000 Congress voted for defense support aid for all of Europe. American officials reportedly have promised the French 186 million dollars for the 12 months which began July 1, and see little chance of meeting the full French request without reducing the arms production program planned in the United States.

Leave for Camp
New York, July 26 (AP)—About 1,500 members of the 107th Regimental Combat Team of the New York National Guard left by train last night for their annual two weeks encampment in northern New York at Camp Drum, N. Y.

Your Life and Mine

by CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

THE HOUSE WITH THE GLEAMING WINDOWS

Have you ever wished that you lived in somebody else's house, had somebody else's problems to face instead of your own, could swap your burdens for some other person's lot in life which appears to you to be much easier than yours? If you haven't you aren't quite human. For all of us, I surmise, have at one time or another harbored that wish, entertained that longing, worshipped at the shrine of that enticing possibility.

There are two things one can say about that wish which are apt to be pretty close to the truth. One is that the other fellow's lot—the very one you covet—is not as easy and as burdensome as you think it is. He undoubtedly has his cares and trials of which you are completely unaware. So many of the heaviest burdens of life are all but invisible to the other fellow. Thus we may make the mistake of judging him happy when, in reality, he may be the most miserable, discontented man in the whole neighborhood.

The other thing to say is that your burdens are probably not quite as heavy nor your situation quite as hopeless as you sometimes think it to be. No trial is ever quite as bad as we think it is in our most discouraged moments. The downcast spirit makes every difficulty and every perplexity seem worse than they really are.

The chances are, a hundred to one, that if you could move into your neighbor's house, taking unto yourself all that weighs him down, before nightfall of the first day you would be longing for the chance to move back into your own again.

A boy who lived in the mountains was fascinated by a home on the opposite side of the valley. Each evening its windows were sheets of shining gold. Unable to resist the temptation, he made his way across the valley toward the house. But the path was rough and in exhaustion he lay down and slept. Early the next morning he hurried to the house. Instead of sheets of gold, the windows were but ordinary glass. Disappointed and bitter, he turned toward home, then stopped in surprise. Across the valley, the house he had seen gleaming with windows of gold.

If you will do a little investigating on your own you may discover something you had never realized before; namely, that you are living—right this very minute—in the house with the gleaming windows.

Experts are gathering in Cincinnati today from all over the country to play in the annual national championship. Among the earnest competitors at the tournament will be Joseph M. Cohan, of Wooster, Ohio, president of the American Contract Bridge League.

Cohan, a genial Irishman, is a first class player as well as one of the most popular men in bridge circles. Today's hand shows him at his most artful, stealing a game from under the noses of his opponents.

West opened the king of hearts, and dummy won with the ace. The "normal" play of leading a trump to the king would have led to defeat at once, but Cohan avoided this pitfall neatly by lead-

Sheikh Loses Title

Damascus, Syria (AP)—As part of the reform policy of Premier General Fawzi Selo, the Syrian government recently abolished the title of Sheikh of the Dancing Dervishes, deprived him of control of the sect's properties and turned their mosque into a public hospital. The sheikh headed the remnants—about 60 members in Damascus and Aleppo—of the Mawlawi sect of dervishes (religious fraternities) which was an abolition by Kamal Ataturk, who confiscated its properties. Among the Mawlawis, the zikir, main devotional exercise, consists of a monotonous chant accompanied by a slow, whirling movement with eyes closed and arms extended. The ceremony continues until the participants fall into a cataleptic state.

Metal Trim Popular

Metal lattice work and other decorative trim is gaining popularity, not only in the South but in all sections of the country.

New York Central Officials Address Service Members

Herbert B. Tucker, superintendent of the New York Central Railroad Terminal District and River Division, and William B. Gaynor, of the railroad's public relations department, who were responsible for the Central's participation in Kingston's 300th Anniversary, addressed a joint meeting of the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions Club on Thursday at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Speaking of the West Shore Railroad, Tucker said that in 1951 the New York Central paid $161,387.35 in taxes in Ulster county and of this amount about one-third went directly to the support of your excellent school system.

People tend to regard the railroads as a far-reaching enterprise with headquarters some place else, he said. Most of you know that the New York Central is a vast organization, one of the largest in the nation. But it isn't just an octopus with headquarters down in New York city and a series of tentacles over which trains run to some other city. In Ulster county, the Central is a big corporation too. In fact, in your county it is the third largest company in terms of employees since there are almost 700 men and women on the Central payroll in this county. And the payroll is a big one. Last year, these employees received $2,206,302 from their company. And if they are like Mrs. Tucker and myself, they spent darn near all of it right down at the corner store. So, I think you'll agree that as men with an eye toward business and merchandising, the Central is "your" railroad.

Continuing, he declared that the West Shore is a very important part of the Central's system. Actually, the West Shore Railroad runs from Weehawken to Buffalo, paralleling what we call the main line. The stretch from Weehawken to Kingston and on to Albany is known as the River Division of the West Shore.

511,577 Freight Cars

To the River Division falls the tremendous responsibility of bringing into the New York city port area practically all of the Central's freight for export, in addition to the goods destined for New Jersey, the speaker pointed out. During 1951 the West Shore operated 12,000 freight trains over the River Division. These trains carried 511,577 cars. Under practical operation, the West Shore has found its duties more in the carrying of freight than in moving of passengers. In Kingston last year, 67,671 cars of freight were handled. That's a nice bit of business and we are glad to have it. Summer travel to Kingston and other resort areas near here is important, but approximately 90 per cent of its normal passenger traffic is the commutation business between Weehawken and Haverstraw.

Concluding his interesting talk, he stated that Kingston is an active, busy city, one that will continue to get the very best of our ability and service. It was just last week that the last steam engine pulled out of Weehawken. From now on, the only locomotive you'll see on our tracks will be the efficient, smoke-free diesels. Diesels don't just go out and buy them. We feel that they are part of our investment in the future, one way to show that we like your business, want to hold on to it, and if possible increase it. Our investment in Kingston, for that matter, is a considerable one. Not just in our physical plant, nor our few employees who work and live here, but in the intangibles, items of good will and esteem. It is just those intangibles which has earned such a high place for your city.

Preceding the superintendent's talk, W. B. Gaynor recalled the building of the West Shore, the Wallkill Valley and the Ulster & Delaware Railroads. He said that Kingston might be called a cradle of transportation—having figured prominently in river boat traffic as the terminus of the Delaware and Hudson Canal and of the three early railroads.

He stated that Ulster county also was unique in that railroads of three different gauges operated here—the West Shore was standard gauge, the Wallkill, built to connect with the Erie, was broad gauge, and part of the U. & D. was narrow gauge.

Scrape Surface Clean

Repainting iron railings, foot scrapers, steel window casements and other architectural hardware is not difficult. All old, loose, scaly paint should first be scraped or wire-brushed. The surface should then be coated with red lead, zinc yellow, blue lead, oxide of iron or zinc dust-zinc oxide. After this has been allowed to dry thoroughly for a week or 10 days, it should be covered with two coats of house paint or exterior enamel.

Causes Paint to Peel

Excessive condensation on the inside of windows may cause paint to peel from the sash; or it may send water down into the frame and cause paint to peel on the outside of the house. Water vapor going through wooden walls can do just that.

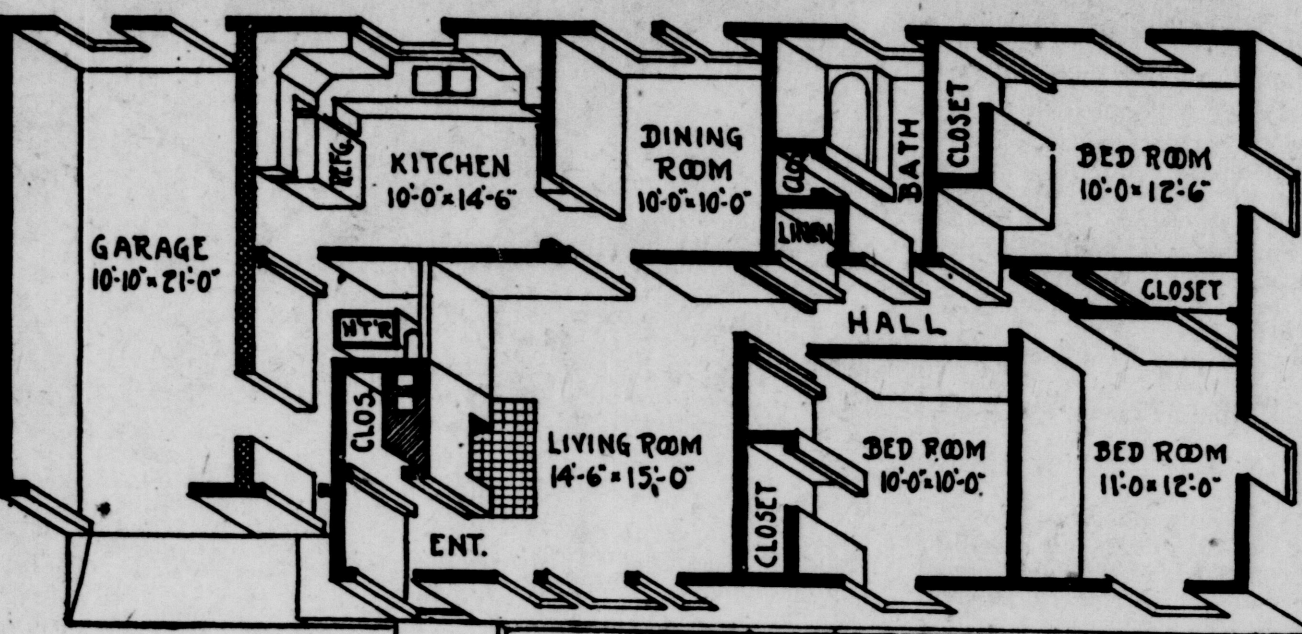

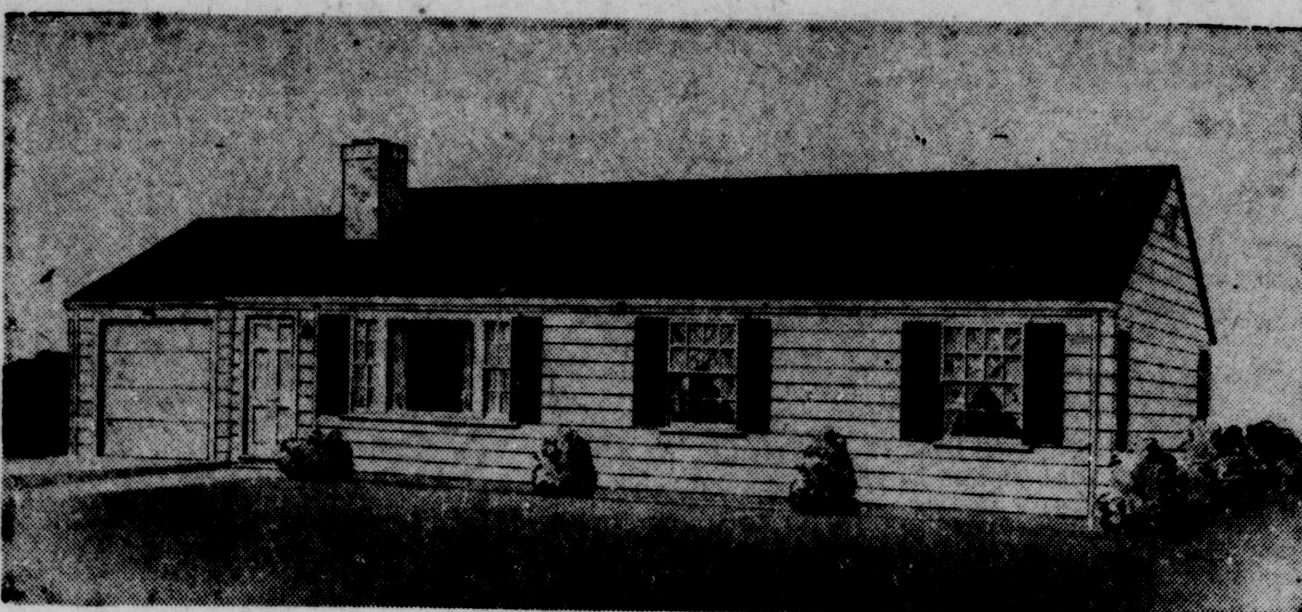

Need Time to Dry

Freshly-washed tile floors will mark if stepped on before thoroughly dry. Bedrooms and kitchen floors may be done sectionally if necessary, leaving lanes open for walking in and out.

Rule for Arrangement

A basic rule in flower arrangement is this: If the container is upright, make the arrangement one and one-half times the height of the container. If the container is flat, use the same proportion in the width of the arrangement.

Aluminum Nails Can Save Expensive Repair Bills

By MR. FIX

Distributed by NEA Service

Although aluminum nails were once regarded merely as substitutes for iron nails when the latter were scarce, they have now earned a niche for themselves as a special-purpose fasteners.

Aluminum nails are saving homeowners and builders the annual costs of putting and repainting. This is because the nailhead doesn't rust or produce the unsightly brown or reddish stains that are common on wood siding and trim from rusted nails.

It's a tedious job for the homeowner to correct this condition and an expensive one if a repairman does it. Every nail must be countersunk and covered with putty or glazing compound. Moisture may still penetrate into the siding itself and cause the nails to rust. This weakens their holding power and may eventually result in "bleeding" through the paint.

It is one manufacturer's claim that the aluminum nail has all the holding power of the more common nails, but it won't rust. It is more expensive, but more economical in the long run, says the maker.

The same manufacturer says builders and owners can count on an average saving of $78 per house on longer paint life assured by aluminum nails.

These nails can be used on all siding and on almost all roofing—especially redwood, red cedar and asbestos.

In recent years the use of proper aluminum alloys has increased the strength of aluminum nails. In addition, etching—a process which roughens the surface of the nails microscopically—has increased holding power up to 100 per cent.

However, even aluminum nail manufacturers do not claim that these nails are suited to all purposes. But wherever water, moisture, condensation, water-base paint, etc., are likely to reach the nail, the non-rusting aluminum nail can be employed effectively and economically, according to the largest manufacturer of aluminum nails.

In repairing and building garden furniture, porches and garages during the warm weather months, many home handymen are finding aluminum nails especially effective fasteners.

Among the most common types of aluminum nails are the sinker-head and casing-head wood siding nails, cedar shake and shingle nails, asbestos siding nails and roofing nails with neoprene washers and plain shank or screw grip. Some are sold in var-colored packages with the emphasis on the amount of nails required for particular jobs, rather than on the weight. This assures the buyer of the proper amount of nails and avoids wastage.

How to Change Oak Finish to Mahogany

If you wish to change an oak finish to mahogany remove the old finish with paint remover and then remove any traces of wax that may have been left by the remover, or other residue, by thoroughly wiping the surface with mineral spirits or benzene, being very careful to keep the remover away from fire or flame. Then stain with a mahogany stain to the desired depth of color.

When the stain is thoroughly dry, thin paste wood filler, obtainable from any paint dealer, with turpentine to the consistency of thick cream, and brush it on freely, brushing with the grain of the wood.

After the shine has disappeared rub thoroughly with a coarse cloth or excelsior to remove any surplus filler. The surface then should be well rubbed down with fine sandpaper and thoroughly cleaned of dust.

Paint Copper Gutters To Avoid Ugly Stains

A corrosive wash from copper gutters and flashings is likely to cause an undesirable yellowish-green stain on light or white-painted houses. To avoid this, copper or bronze should be washed off with gasoline or turpentine to remove any grease present. The surface should then be roughened slightly with sandpaper and a metal primer, followed by a coating of house paint in the desired color.

Weathered copper or bronze should be thoroughly dusted. These metals do not need the preliminary washing or sanding before the priming coat and finish coat are applied, however.

Make Homes More Homey

The "hominess" of the average house can be increased, and at the same time its market value may be raised, by adding relatively inexpensive features which, although simple devices, can become so important that living in the home will revolve around them.

While the fireplace is usually the focal point of the living room, in many of the older types of houses it is often dingy and unattractive. Modern decorators have devised means of brightening them through the use of paint, new mantels, or large mirrors.

Another way to style a living room is through installing a large "picture window." A large window allowing a clear, undistorted view of the landscape tends to bring the out-of-doors into the house and form a large living picture. Frequently its effect is to turn an otherwise undistinguished house into a showplace, while at the same time providing additional natural light.

To Banish 'Foggy Look'

Occasionally highly polished furniture develops a "foggy look." To remove it, dampen a clean piece of cheesecloth with a solution made from one quart of clear water and a tablespoonful of vinegar. Apply it to the surface, rubbing with the grain.

Lime May Harm Lawn

Lime can be harmful to lawns if applied too frequently. Scotts Lawn Research reports. Proper application is at intervals of two years or so and then only after soil tests to check on the acidity.

Another Popular Ranch Design

Cubage:

House 17,836 ft.

Garage 3,146 ft.

Dimensions 60' x 26'

Built along popular ranch house lines, "The Cole" would look attractive with either a wood, masonry or combination finish for its exterior. However, wood seems more suitable with the informal style of this house.

Overall dimensions of "The Cole" are 60' x 26'. Cubage of the house is 17,836 feet; cubage of the garage is 3,146 feet. Thus, at least an 80 foot lot would be required to build this house and attached garage. Simple landscaping is recommended and the house will look most attractive if it has a good lawn extending from it to the street.

The abundance of windows in "The Cole" dresses up both the exterior and interior appearance of the house; provides good light and ventilation for the interior. Blinds at these windows add an extra decorative touch to the house exterior.

Although it is small, the entry hall has a large closet in its back wall. An open archway leads from the entry hall to the 14'6" x 15' living room.

Located in the front living room wall is a handsome picture window which is flanked by casement windows and which provides both light and decorative interest for the room. The fireplace, located in the left wall, also is both practical and decorative. Long unbroken expanses along the back and right walls make furniture arrangement easy in this pleasant living room.

Double Windows

In the back wall, a door leads to the 10 foot square dining room. Double windows in the back wall provide good light and ventilation for this room. A shina closet could be built into the right front corner of the room so that you'd have a space saving place in which to keep your fine china and glassware.

Opening directly off the dining room — a feature the lady of the house is certain to appreciate at meal-time — is the well planned kitchen. Arranged and equipped to make kitchen tasks pleasant and convenient, the kitchen contains modern counters, cupboards and cabinets which are placed in a U shaped array along the left, back and right walls.

At the left end of the line of working counters is the refrigerator; at the right end is the stove. Under the large window in the back kitchen wall is the selected location for the sink. The door at the further end of the front kitchen wall opens on a hallway leading to the utility room in which you can have your heating equipment installed if you prefer to have it on the first floor rather than in the basement.

Another doorway leads from this hallway to the 10'10" x 21' garage. Thus, you can go directly to and from the garage without going outdoors; you'll appreciate this protection in cold and stormy weather. One window in the back wall provides light and ventilation for the garage and there is another door, in the back wall, which leads directly to the yard.

Large Linen Closet

In the right wing of "The Cole" are the bedrooms and the all-modern bath. A large linen closet, conveniently near to the bath room and all three bedrooms, opens on the connecting hallway just to the left of the bathroom doors.

In the bathroom there is a good sized general purpose closet. One window lights the bathroom, provides sufficient ventilation for this room which contains both a tub and a built-in shower.

Measuring 10' x 12'6", the back bedroom enjoys the benefits of cross ventilation — an important feature for any bedroom. There is one window in the back wall and another in the right wall. The closet is large enough to easily take care of the storage needs of the occupant of this bedroom.

The right front bedroom also has two windows on adjoining walls and thus enjoys the benefits of good light and cross ventilation. This room measures 11' x 12' and also has a large closet.

In the left front bedroom there is an extra large closet. This 10 foot square bedroom has but one window; that is in the front wall of the room. The long right wall of this room is ideally suited to the installation of bunk beds if this room is to be shared by the young gentlemen of the house or if your young son likes to have his buddy "sleep over" every once in a while.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Rusty Water Traced To Variety of Causes

There are several causes for rusty discoloration of water flowing from hot-water faucets. Rust and dirt may be carried in from the street main; or may be caused by rusting of house pipes and supply tank; or by sediment collecting when water is heated.

The system should have a drain cock at the bottom of the supply tank, while the pipe from supply tank to heating unit should be located several inches above the bottom of the tank. This will permit sediment to settle in the bottom and be drained off by the cock.

Sediment also collects in pipes if there is little or no circulation. If the heater has a shut-off valve and drain cock it can be flushed as often as necessary. Water usually is kept clean by flushing heating coil and draining sediment from the tank once a month.

Use Economy Grade Of Hardwood in Attic

Thousands of home owners in the last few years have converted unused attic space into cozy, attractive bedrooms, dens or playrooms. The job often can be done at surprisingly little expense, particularly if a person is adept at household repairs.

The operation is simplified, of course, if the attic already is equipped with a finish floor. When it is not, however, one can have a floor of sturdy hardwood installed at comparatively small cost by selecting one of the economy grades of oak or other hardwood.

Although possessing adequate strength, resistance to wear and other qualities for which hardwood is famed, these are available at considerably lower prices than higher grades. The difference between the two grades is principally in appearance.

Economy grades in oak, the most widely used species, are No. 1 Common and No. 2 Common. In hard maple, beech and birch Third grade is most economically priced.

Tips on Storage

A hot dry attic is a good place to store sleds, skis and snow shovels or other winter equipment which needs to be protected against rust. A cool basement is a better place for rubber articles such as overshoes.

New York Central Officials Address Service Members

Herbert B. Tucker, superintendent of the New York Central Railroad Terminal District and River Division, and William B. It was just last week that the last steam engine pulled out of Weehawken. From now on, the only locomotive you'll see on our tracks will be the efficient, smoke-free diesels. Diesels don't just grow on trees, either, you have to go out and buy them. But we feel that they are part of our investment in the future, one way to show that we like your business, want to hold on to it, and if possible increase it.

Our investment in Kingston, for that matter, is a considerable one. Not just in our physical plant, nor our fellow employees who work and live here, but in the intangibles, items of good will and esteem. It is just those intangibles which have earned such a high place for your city.

Preceding the superintendent's talk, W. B. Gaynor recalled the building of the West Shore, the Wallkill Valley and the Ulster and Delaware Railroads. He said that Kingston might be called a cradle of transportation: having figured prominently in river boat traffic as the terminus of the Delaware and Hudson Canal and of the three early railroads.

He stated that Ulster county also was unique in that railroad of three different gauges operated here—the West Shore was standard gauge, the Wallkill, built to connect with the Erie, was broad gauge, and part of the U. & D. was narrow gauge.

Scrape Surface Clean
Repainting iron railings, foot scrapers, steel window casements and other architectural hardware is not difficult. All old, loose scale paint should first be scraped or wire-brushed. The surface should then be coated with red lead, zinc yellow, blue lead, oxide of iron or zinc dust-zinc oxide. After this has been allowed to dry thoroughly for a week or 10 days, it should be covered with two coats of house paint or exterior enamel.

Causes Paint to Peel
Excessive condensation on the inside of windows may cause paint to peel from the sash; or it may send water down into the frame and cause paint to peel on the outside of the house. Water vapor going through wooden walls can do just that.

Need Time to Dry
Freshly-washed tile floors will mark if stepped on before thoroughly dry. Bedrooms and kitchen floors may be done sectionally if necessary, leaving lanes open for walking in and out.

Rule for Arrangement
A basic rule in flower arrangement is this: If the container is upright, make the arrangement one and one-half times the height of the container. If the container is flat, use the same proportion in the width of the arrangement.

Aluminum Nails Can Save Expensive Repair Bills

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

Although aluminum nails were once regarded merely as substitutes for iron nails when the latter were scarce, they have now earned a niche for themselves as special-purpose fasteners.

Aluminum nails are saving homeowners and builders the annual costs of putting and repainting. This is because the nailhead doesn't rust or produce the unsightly brown or reddish stains that are common on wood siding and trim from rusted nailheads. It's a tedious job for the homeowner to correct this condition and an expensive one if a repairman does it. Every nail must be countersunk and covered with putty or glazing compound.

Moisture may still penetrate into the siding itself and cause the nails to rust. This weakens their holding power and may eventually result in "bleeding" through the paint.

It is one manufacturer's claim that the aluminum nail has all the holding power of the more common iron nail, but more economical in the long run, says the maker.

The same manufacturer says builders and owners can count on an average saving of $78 per house on longer paint life assured by aluminum nails.

These nails can be used on all siding and on almost all roofing—especially redwood, red cedar and asbestos.

In recent years the use of proper aluminum alloys has increased the strength of aluminum nails. In addition, etching—a process which roughens the surface of the nails microscopically and makes them absolutely sterile, has increased holding power up to 100 per cent.

However, even aluminum nail manufacturers do not claim that these nails are suited to all purposes. But wherever water, moisture, condensation, water-base paint, etc., are likely to reach the nails, the use of aluminum nail can be employed effectively and economically, according to the largest manufacturer of aluminum nails.

In repairing and building garden furniture, porches and garages during the warm weather months, many home handymen are finding aluminum nails especially effective fasteners.

Among the most common types of aluminum nails are the sinker-head and casing-head wood siding nails, cedar shake and shingle nails, asbestos siding nails and roofing nails with neoprene washer and plain shank or screw grip.

Some are sold in vari-colored packages with the emphasis on the amount of nails required for particular jobs, rather than on the weight. This assures the buyer of the proper amount of nails and avoids wastage.

How to Change Oak Finish to Mahogany

If you wish to change an oak finish to mahogany remove the old finish with paint remover and then remove any traces of wax that may have been left by the remover, or other residue, by thoroughly wiping the surface with mineral spirits or benzene, being very careful to keep the work away from fire or flame. Then stain with a mahogany stain to the desired depth of color.

When the stain is thoroughly dry, thin paste wood filler, obtainable from any paint dealer, with turpentine to the consistency of thick cream, and brush it on freely, brushing with the grain of the wood.

After the shine has disappeared rub thoroughly with a coarse cloth or excelsior to remove any surplus filler. The surface then should be well rubbed down with fine sandpaper and thoroughly cleaned of dust.

Paint Copper Gutters To Avoid Ugly Stains

A corrosive wash from copper gutters and flashings is likely to cause an undesirable yellowish-green stain on light or white-painted houses. To avoid this, new copper or bronze should be washed off with gasoline or turpentine to remove any grease present. The surface should then be roughened slightly with sandpaper and a metal primer, followed by a coating of house paint in the desired color.

Weathered copper or bronze should be thoroughly dusted. These metals do not need the preliminary washing or sanding before the priming coat and finish coat are applied, however.

Cubage:
House . . . . . 17,836 ft.
Garage . . . . . 3,146 ft.

Dimensions . . . . . 60' x 26'

Built along popular ranch house lines, "The Cole" would look attractive with either a wood, masonry or combination finish for its exterior. However, wood seems more suitable with the informal style of this house. Overall dimensions of "The Cole" are 60' x 26'. Cubage of the house is 17,836 feet; cubage of the garage is 3,146 feet. Thus, at least an 80 foot lot would be required to build this house and attached garage. Simple landscaping is recommended and the house will look most attractive if it has a good lawn extending from it to the street.

The abundance of windows in "The Cole" dresses up both the exterior and interior appearance of the house; provides good light and ventilation for the interior. Blinds at these windows add an extra decorative touch to the house exterior.

Although it is small, the entry hall has a large closet in its back wall. An open archway leads from the entry hall to the 14'6" x 15' living room.

Located in the front living room wall is a handsome picture window which is flanked by casement windows and which provides both light and decorative interest for the room. The fireplace, located in the left wall, also is both practical and decorative. Long unbroken expanses along the back and right walls make furniture arrangement easy in this pleasant living room.

Double Windows
In the back wall, a door leads to the 10 foot square dining room. Double windows in the back wall provide good light and ventilation for this room. A china cabinet could be built into the right front corner of the room so that you'd have a space saving place in which to keep your fine china and glassware.

Opening directly off the dining room is a feature the lady of the house is certain to appreciate at meal-time — is the well planned kitchen. Arranged and equipped to make kitchen tasks pleasant and convenient, the kitchen contains working counters, cupboards and cabinets that are placed in a U shaped array along the left, back and right walls.

At the left end of the line of working counters is the refrigerator; at the right end is the stove. Under the large window in the back kitchen wall is the selected location for the sink. The door at the further end of the front kitchen wall opens on a hallway leading to the utility room in which you can have your heating equipment installed if you prefer to have it on the first floor rather than in the basement.

Another doorway leads from this hallway to the 10'10" x 21' garage. Thus, you can go directly to and from the garage without going outdoors; you'll appreciate this protection in cold and stormy weather. One window in the back wall provides light and ventilation for the garage and there is another door, in the back wall, which leads directly to the yard.

Large Linen Closet
In the right wing of "The Cole" are the bedrooms and the all-modern bath. A large linen closet, conveniently near to the bath room and all three bedrooms, opens on the connecting hallway just to the left of the bathroom doors.

In the bathroom there is a good sized general purpose closet. One window lights the bathroom, provides sufficient ventilation for this room which contains both a tub and a built-in shower. Measuring 10' x 12'6" the back bedroom enjoys the benefits of cross ventilation — an important feature for any bedroom. There is one window in the back wall and another in the right wall. The closet is large enough to easily take care of the storage needs of the occupant of this bedroom.

The right front bedroom also has two windows on adjoining walls and thus enjoys the benefits of good light and cross ventilation. This room measures 11' x 12' and also has a large closet.

In the left front bedroom there is an extra large closet. This 10 foot square bedroom has but one window; that is in the front wall of the room. The long right wall of this room is ideally suited to the installation of bunk beds if this room is to be shared by the young gentlemen of the house or if your young son likes to have his buddy "sleep over" every once in a while.

Rusty Water Traced To Variety of Causes

There are several causes for rusty discoloration of water flowing from hot-water faucets. Rust and dirt may be carried in from the street main; or may be caused by rusting of house pipes and supply tank; or by sediment collecting when water is heated.

The system should have a drain cock at the bottom of the supply tank, while the pipe from supply tank to heating unit should be located several inches above the bottom of the tank. This will permit sediment to settle in the bottom and be drained off by the cock.

Sediment also collects in pipes if there is little or no circulation. If the heater has a shut-off valve and drain cock it can be flushed as often as necessary. Water usually is kept clean by flushing heating coil and draining sediment from the tank once a month.

Use Economy Grade Of Hardwood in Attic

Thousands of home owners in the last few years have converted unused attic space into cozy, attractive bedrooms, dens or playrooms. The job often can be done at surprisingly little expense, particularly if a person is adept at household repairs.

The operation is simplified, of course, if the attic already is equipped with a finish floor. When it is not, however, one can have a floor of sturdy hardwood installed at comparatively small cost by selecting one of the economy grades of oak or other hardwood.

Although possessing adequate strength, resistance to wear and other qualities for which hardwood is famed, these are available at considerably lower prices than higher grades. The difference between the two grades is principally in appearance.

Economy grades in oak, the most widely used species, are No. 1 Common and No. 2 Common. In hard maple, beech and birch third grade is most economically priced.

Tips on Storage

A hot dry attic is a good place to store sleds, skis and snow shovels or other winter equipment which needs to be protected against rust. A cool basement is a better place for rubber articles such as overshoes.

SOVIET VACATION FUN

Even vacations behind the Iron Curtain differ from those in the United States. The Soviet government, unwilling to trust the individual for a single moment, has organized a vacation program in Poland which permits almost constant surveillance of the worker looking for a rest. Almost all resort hotels, rest homes and boarding houses have been nationalized and turned over to the management of loyal Communists who are generally members of the Secret Police. They make sure that the vacationers do not waste their time but use it for "ideological training."

Not everyone, of course, can take vacations, which are reserved in general for party workers and loyalists. But even they cannot move freely. They need a permit to travel to the shore. Places where they may swim are carefully defined; other swimming areas are off limits. Even boats patrol the water to make sure the swimmers don't overextend their privileges—by heading towards freedom. Beaches are closed between sunset and sunrise.

A vacationer in Poland must carry reams of identification papers. As soon as he arrives at his destination he must obtain a registration card from the local administration office. Between sunset and sunrise he cannot wander beyond the bounds of the village, homestead or villa he is visiting. Each of his actions and movements is governed by the 26 paragraphs of regulations for vacationers.

These restrictions dramatize the unending suspicions that exist between the Soviet state and the individual. A careless slip, a moment of relaxation may bring death or a lifelong imprisonment for the Communist on vacation.

IMPERFECT WORLD

"I wouldn't mind the heat of summer so much if it weren't so noisy!" complained a friend the other day. "The windows have to be open and the trucks and cars go whooshing and bang-bang by the house, and the train choo-choos and whistles louder than ever and the neighbor's young ones on one side have company and start or bring in cars all hours of the night and the neighbors on the other side get out to work so briskly and so early, and the children shriek at play and the birds chirp all day, and at night by the time the cars are in the robins and bluejays and cardinals are out arguing about worms."

This is all true, dear lady. We all know it. Winter is quieter. Where there is a heavy snow there comes with it a deep silence. Your windows are shut, and no wheels move. The groceries can't come and going to work is an arctic achievement.

But how uninteresting life would be without any seasons. Perfect adjustment and nothing to grumble about. Variety's the spice.

WHITMAN TRANSLATED

A new edition of Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass," translated into Hebrew by Dr. Simon Halkin of Hebrew University, is on sale in book stores in Israel. Citizens of that new democracy who read Whitman in their own tongue will get a better idea of what America is like, what are its dreams and aspirations.

The opinions formed by one people about another people are frequently the result of history they have read. But just as often people shape their ideas about other countries from literature. Americans who know and love Walt Whitman will be pleased that Israel may come to know something of America from the works of one of our greatest and most characteristically American poets.

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

OUTLINE OF THE CAMPAIGN

We, who listened to Governor Paul A. Dever's keynote speech on radio and television, heard it to greater advantage than those who were in the convention hall. It was an important document, spoken with what used to be called elocution but without eloquence.

On television, it was possible to note that the delegates were not listening to it. I telephoned on Tuesday morning. An important delegate said to me: "The noise around me was so loud that I could not hear him clearly. I have set the speech aside to read." I heard every word of it on television.

I am sure that the Republican strategists were following Governor Dever's speech closely because it is the outline of the forthcoming campaign. It laid down the line.

Unfortunately, the emotionalism which undoubtedly won Governor Dever acclaim in his personal campaigns for office in Massachusetts, sounded funny on television and looked even worse. This is a frightening instrument. However, the delegates were not watching television; they were looking at a live show and were supposed to be listening to instructions right out of the mule's mouth. But too many of them did not listen. Why did they go to the convention?

The gist of the instructions may be summarized as follows:

1. Attack Eisenhower, Herbert Hoover and Tom Dewey.

2. Say that Eisenhower knows nothing about administering the affairs of the United States; say that he initiated nothing as Commander-in-Chief in World War 2, but carried out the orders of Franklin D. Roosevelt; say that he did nothing on his own in NATO, only carrying out the orders of Harry S. Truman.

3. Say that Eisenhower is a tool of the reactionary Wall Street elements in the Republican Party, that the voice is Ike's but the hands are Thomas's, meaning Tom Dewey.

4. Compare economic conditions in this country in 1932 with those in 1952, and establish that labor, the farmer, the business man is now better off than he was in the Hoover Administration. Hook up Eisenhower with Hoover's disadvantage.

5. Say that Roosevelt won the war and Truman arrested the Communist advantage. Denounce Communism at home and abroad.

6. Say that the object of the Korean War was to restore the 38th parallel and that that has been accomplished.

7. Pile up data to show how everybody got a handout from the Democratic Party and ask if they will bite the hand that feeds them.

8. Denounce John Foster Dulles.

9. Do not refer to the bipartisan foreign policy but claim every victory and benefit in Europe or Asia for Roosevelt and Truman.

10. Favor the FEC all you like.

There is to be a fighting campaign and Eisenhower is to be shown no mercy. Governor Dever did not mention Eisenhower by name, but he described him fully as a tool of Wall Street. He also did not mention MacArthur whom he attacked while he praised General Omar Bradley as a sort of genius.

If this is to be the nature of the campaign, it will be necessary for the Republicans to work out a strategy which can meet the Democratic onslaught on their candidate. Republicans like to believe that they can shout, "throw the rascals out." Dever dealt with corruption and said that the crooks have been cleared out, which may or may not be so.

Dever did indicate that the Republicans cannot do much about the foreign policy and he read from Tom Dewey's recent book on Asia establishing that Dewey approves of the Korean policy of the Administration. Before this campaign is over, the Democrats will be giving away Dewey's book as campaign literature helping their cause no end.

Dever also defended the budget with its 85 per cent for military expenses. He challenged the Republicans to show where the budget can be cut. The Republicans will have to try to meet that challenge during the campaign because the Democrats will obviously press the point. Unfortunately, the Republican platform has to a great degree accepted the Administration's policies; therefore, they must accept the cost of administering those policies.

The Democrats have carefully laid their lines and now the Republicans can either take a battering at their hands or the offensive and go after corruption. In a word, the Republicans must muddle or they will have little to say. This seems to have become the challenge of this speech.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

LIVER A GREAT BLOOD BUILDER

When Drs. Minot and Murphy discovered that about five ounces of calf's liver eaten daily by patients would prevent death from pernicious anemia, up to that time always fatal, it ranked with the discovery of insulin by Drs. Banting and Best, by the use of which diabetes could be controlled and thousands of useful lives are now being saved. Fortunately it is no longer necessary to eat calf's liver or the liver of other animals, as extract of liver can be used.

Then when it was found that folic acid would enrich the blood as well as liver or liver extract, there was naturally a great switchover to folic acid for pernicious anemia. However, it was found that while folic acid enriched the blood by increasing the number of red cells carrying iron (hemoglobin) and also increasing the amount of iron in these red cells, it nevertheless did not correct the nervous symptoms which are a distressing part of the disease. Accordingly these patients were once again given liver and liver extract which enriched the blood and gave relief from the nervous symptoms.

In the medical journal, Blood, Drs. R. B. Chodos and J. F. Ross, New York, found that folic acid alone did not prevent development of degeneration in 12 of 22 patients treated for from 12 to 25 months. In one patient with anemia who had gastrectomy (removal of stomach), combined degeneration developed after five months. Neurological (nervous) disease did not develop in six pernicious anemia patients treated with folic acid and also liver extract for 3½ to 39 months. In 10 pernicious anemia patients with good nutrition, nervous relapses did not progress when liver extract or vitamin B12 treatment was given even though folic acid treatment was continued.

Apparently it is when stomach symptoms occur that the folic acid treatment is not sufficient to prevent degeneration and so liver extract must be given in addition to the folic acid to get complete results in pernicious anemia.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Chicago — There were some tense moments during the Democrats' battles over the loyalty oath and the seating of the southern delegates.

Bitterest of all was South Carolina's Governor Jimmie Byrnes who at times trembled with rage. More moderate leaders among the southern delegates maneuvered to keep him off the roster. Almost equally bitter was Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia.

Instead, the more moderate southern leaders were carefully picked as spokesmen. Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, Speaker of the House, and Olin Johnston of South Carolina. They knew that if the south really did bolt the convention, southern senators would lose their prize positions as chairmen of the key committees of Congress—places which have given the south tremendous power in writing legislation, and blocking it. Almost every key committee in both houses of Congress today is headed by a southern Democrat.

Most paradoxical development of the entire loyalty-oath fight was the fact that Sen. Walter George of Georgia turned out to be the author of one part of the bath to which the south objected.

George said he would have no objection to some such phraseology as "every American wants to subscribe to the principle of majority rule," and second, that "every delegate subscribing to this pledge agrees to vote for the nominee of this convention."

Young Franklin Roosevelt, when he read the latter pledge vote for the nominee of the convention remarked: "I don't think we can tell every delegate who they should vote for."

However, this part of the oath, having been proposed by a distinguished leader of the south, was left in.

When Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas saw it, however, he objected: "I can take the oath," he said, "if you omit this section" referring to the second part of Senator George's proposal.

Its omission was immediately agreed to.

During the private discussions over seating of the southern delegates, Sen. Earle Clements was the roughest of all southerners. Sore over Vice President Barkley's retirement from the race, he used caustic, bitter language toward young Roosevelt and others.

"At least my family for generations has voted the Democratic ticket," he said, referring to Elliott Roosevelt's deviation to the GOP.

Other committee members recalled that no one in years had done so much for the party as the man who happened to be Elliott's father.

How much money was put up for the expenses of delegates or buying delegates seldom leaks out during a national convention. At this convention there probably was relatively little, due in part to an advance expose of Sen. Robert S. Kerr's mysterious emissary from Kansas, State Senator Bob George. He was the man who turned up in California and bought $1,600 worth of free railroad tickets to Chicago, which he tried to hand out to the California delegation, all of them pledged to Kefauver. Only two California delegates accepted his free travel.

George's hand also was apparent in Idaho, where Mrs. Laverne Swope, one of that state's delegates, received $500 by mail. However when Ira Masters, also of Idaho, got wind of it, he protested to State Senator George, who in turn sent a telegram to Mrs. Swope, with a copy to Masters.

Apparently, George misinterpreted Masters' motive because the telegram read: "Regarding the $500 given to Masters."

Later, when Senator Kerr met with the Idaho delegation he apologized for the incident.

State Senator George's heart is in the right place, he said, but he shouldn't have done it.

Reports of Kerr's money being used to pay expenses of delegates was on the minds of various delegates. For instance, H. S. Dole, a delegate from Kansas, who wanted to vote for Kerr, announced in a caucus that he was not going to do so.

"I want people to know that I paid my own way to Chicago," Dole explained.

Notes From Smoke-Filled Rooms
Deals, and sometimes double-deals were being made and unmade during the hectic closing days of the convention. At one time Governor Stevenson's backers had offered the vice presidency to four different people, even though their man allegedly was not a candidate.

1. Gov. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota were asked to line up Kefauver to run as VP on the Stevenson ticket.

2. Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama was sounded out on becoming VP for Stevenson.

3. Jonathan Daniels of North Carolina was discreetly approached as VP.

4. Yet word from Stevenson was that he personally preferred Sen. Bill Fulbright of Arkansas.

Kefauver people, meanwhile, did a little dealing of their own. Gael Sullivan, working with boss Fitzpatrick of New York, suggested F. D. Roosevelt, Jr. for vice president, in return for swinging the Harriman forces behind Kefauver. Simultaneously, Kefauver people told Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois he was their favorite. . . . When Ed Amdur, a Kefauver lieutenant, dropped in to see Gov. John Battle of Virginia to try to stir up some Kefauver support, the governor not only damned Kefauver and Harriman but even let loose against the south's favorite son, Sen. Richard Russell. He ended the conversation by stating flatly that he was for Eisenhower.

As a tribute to Vice President Barkley's long service to the party and as sort of a consolation prize, Barkley will be offered his choice of any U. S. ambassadorship he wants. He'll probably pick either Britain or France. During the convention, President Truman turned down the suggestion that his name be placed in nomination as a friendly gesture and tribute to his administration. The suggestion was made by members of the Missouri delegation, but Truman thanked them, said "positively no."

Questions — Answers

Q—Must Indians who live on reservations have permission in order to leave?

A—Indians are not obliged to stay on these reserved tracts, but they usually prefer to stay because the reserved land is tax-free. They are at complete liberty to leave and return whenever they choose.

Q—For what are the cruisers of the U. S. Navy named?

A—Important American cities.

Q—In World War 1 did any American troops fight under British command?

A—No. From the first, General Pershing insisted on a separate American Army. The Allies wanted to use American troops to fill up the ranks in their own armies, but Pershing was firm.

"The Voice of the Press"

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

The large majority of editors, while favoring some system of nationwide presidential primaries, feels that such primaries cannot replace national party conventions, and that primary candidate preferences should be binding on convention delegates for only so long as a delegate's state may provide.

A rather large minority, fearing federal control through federal aid, argues that the separate states can provide a satisfactory system of primaries without federal legislation. But the majority view is that at least some form of federal coordination is required to achieve the uniformity necessary for effective primaries.

St. Louis (Mo.) Post Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "Most of the proponents of this major reform apparently favor the plan submitted to Congress by Senator Douglas and Representative Bennett. This would have Washington help each state to meet the expenses of a popular pre-convention vote. Such a test would not be binding on the party conventions, but it is hard to imagine the delegates going against the expressed preference of a majority of all the Republicans or all the Democrats in the country."

Senator Smathers wants to go even farther and submit a constitutional amendment calling for binding, direct presidential primaries."

Fort Worth (Texas) Star-Telegram (Ind.-Dem.): "Both these proposed methods have their advantages, although the constitutional amendment procedure would offer the greater certainty of uniformity in the primaries of the various states. Uniformity is one of the prime needs of such a system, provided it is uniformity that makes sure the choice expressed by the voters prevails. It matters not so much whether a national nominating convention is held by the various parties as that the choice of the voters be binding upon the delegates to such conventions."

Washington (D.C.) News (Ind.): "Primary elections in all of the states, for the selection of delegates to the national conventions, such as have been proposed in many quarters, would be a vast improvement over the prevailing arrangement."

Primaries probably could not be made a complete substitute for the national conventions. Preferential voting by states probably would not indicate a clear majority for any candidate in many cases. Conventions would be necessary.

Charlotte (N.C.) News (Ind.-Dem.): "The convention system lends itself to abuse by party bosses. Yet Abraham Lincoln, Grover Cleveland, Teddy Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt were products of the convention system, just as were William McKinley, Warren Harding and Harry Truman. . . . Nationwide primaries will not be a major improvement unless (1) all states hold them at the same time and under the same rules, (2) all candidates are entered in all primaries, and (3) a larger cross-section of the voting population participates."

Cleveland (Ohio) Plain Dealer (Ind.-Dem.): "The Constitution leaves to the individual states the power to determine how the elections in each shall be conducted. We believe direct participation of voters of every state in selecting presidential candidates can be achieved without constitutional amendment or federal legislation, if both major parties will openly and squarely declare themselves in favor of presidential primaries and call upon legislators in the states that are deficient in this respect to pass the necessary legislation."

Buffalo, N. Y. (AP)—A prayer was answered for devout little Joan Blanco when a local contractor—with an assist from a news photographer and his newspaper—gave Joan a shiny new bicycle. Nine-year-old Joan had prayed for one "for a long, long time." When she learned of a police department auction of second-hand bicycles, Joan went with her mother, Mrs. Samuel M. Blanco. But they were short on cash. At the height of the auction, a photographer for the Buffalo Courier-Express snapped a picture of Joan "praying just as hard as she could." The newspaper ran the picture and a contractor, who has remained anonymous, offered a new bicycle. But disappointed Joan had fished from the auction before the photographer could get her name. The Courier-Express ran the picture again with the caption, "Prayer Heard, But What's Her Name." A relative telephoned Joan's parents when he saw the picture. Joan claimed her bicycle.

SOVIET VACATION FUN

Even vacations behind the Iron Curtain differ from those in the United States. The Soviet government, unwilling to trust the individual for a single moment, has organized a vacation program in Poland which permits almost constant surveillance of the worker looking for a rest. Almost all resort hotels, rest homes and boarding houses have been nationalized and turned over to the management of loyal Communists who are generally members of the Secret Police. They make sure that the vacationers do not waste their time but use it for "ideological training."

Not everyone, of course, can take vacations, which are reserved in general for party workers and loyalists. But even they cannot move freely. They need a permit to travel to the shore. Places where they may swim are carefully defined; other swimming areas are off limits. Even boats patrol the water to make sure the swimmers don't overextend their privileges—by heading towards freedom. Beaches are closed between sunset and sunrise.

A vacationer in Poland must carry reams of identification papers. As soon as he arrives at his destination he must obtain a registration card from the local administration office. Between sunset and sunrise he cannot wander beyond the bounds of the village, homestead or villa he is visiting. Each of his actions and movements is governed by the 26 paragraphs of regulations for vacationers.

These restrictions dramatize the unending suspicions that exist between the Soviet state and the individual. A careless slip, a moment of relaxation may bring death or a lifelong imprisonment for the Communist on vacation.

IMPERFECT WORLD

"I wouldn't mind the heat of summer so much if it weren't so noisy," complained a friend the other day. "The windows have to be open and the trucks and cars go whooshing and bang-bang by the house, and the train choo-choos and whistles louder than ever and the neighbor's young ones on one side have company and start or bring in cars all hours of the night and the neighbors on the other side get out to work so briskly and so early, and the children shriek at play and the birds chirp all day, and at night by the time the cars are in the robbins and blue-jays and cardinals are out arguing about worms."

This is all true, dear lady. We all know it. Winter is quieter. Where there is a heavy snow there comes with it a deep silence. Your windows are shut, and no wheels move. The groceries can't come and going to work is an arctic achievement.

But how uninteresting life would be without any seasons. Perfect adjustment and nothing to grumble about. Variety's the spice.

WHITMAN TRANSLATED

A new edition of Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass," translated into Hebrew by Dr. Simon Halkin of Hebrew University, is on sale in book stores in Israel. Citizens of that new democracy who read Whitman in their own tongue will get a better idea of what America is like, what are its dreams and aspirations.

The opinions formed by one people about another people are frequently the result of history they have read. But just as often people shape their ideas about other countries from literature. Americans who know and love Walt Whitman will be pleased that Israel may come to know something of America from the works of one of our greatest and most characteristically American poets.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

OUTLINE OF THE CAMPAIGN

We, who listened to Governor Paul A. Dever's keynote speech on radio and television, heard it to greater advantage than those who were in the convention hall. It was an important document, spoken with what used to be called elocution but without elocution.

On television, it was possible to note that the delegates were not listening to it. I telephoned on Tuesday morning. An important delegate said to me: "The noise around me was so loud that I could not hear him clearly. I have set the speech aside to read." I heard every word of it on television.

I am sure that the Republican strategists were following Governor Dever's speech closely because it is the outline of the forthcoming campaign. It laid down the line.

Unfortunately, the emotionalism which undoubtedly won Governor Dever acclaim in his personal campaigns for office in Massachusetts, sounded funny on television and looked even worse. This is a frightening instrument. However, the delegates were not watching television; they were looking at a live show and were supposed to be listening to instructions right out of the mule's mouth. But too many of them did not listen. Why did they go to the convention?

The gist of the instructions may be summarized as follows:

1. Attack Eisenhower, Herbert Hoover and Tom Dewey.

2. Say that Eisenhower knows nothing about administering the affairs of the United States; say that he initiated nothing as Commander-in-Chief in World War 2, but carried out the orders of Franklin D. Roosevelt; say that he did nothing on his own in NATO, only carrying out the orders of Harry S. Truman.

3. Say that Eisenhower is a tool of the reactionary Wall Street elements in the Republican Party, that the voice is Ike's but the hands are Thomas's, meaning Tom Dewey.

4. Compare economic conditions in this country in 1932 with those in 1952, and establish that labor, the farmer, the business man is now better off than he was in the Hoover Administration. Hook up Eisenhower with Hoover to Ike's disadvantage.

5. Say that Roosevelt won the war and Truman arrested the Communist advantage. Denounce Communism at home and abroad.

6. Say that the object of the Korean War was to restore the 38th parallel and that that has been accomplished.

7. Pile up data to show how everybody got a handout from the Democratic Party and ask if they will bite the hand that feeds them.

8. Denounce John Foster Dulles.

9. Do not refer to the bipartisan foreign policy but claim every victory and benefit in Europe or Asia for Roosevelt and Truman.

10. Favor the FEPC all you like.

This then is to be a fighting campaign and Eisenhower is to be shown no mercy. Governor Dever did not mention MacArthur whom he attacked while he praised General Omar Bradley as a sort of genius.

If this is to be the nature of the campaign, it will be necessary for the Republicans to work out a strategy which can meet the Democratic onslaught on their candidate. Republicans like to believe that they can shout, "throw the rascals out." Dever dealt with corruption and said that the crooks have been cleared out, which may or may not be so.

Dever did indicate that the Republicans cannot do much about the foreign policy and he read from Tom Dewey's recent book on Asia establishing that Dewey approves of the Korean policy of the Administration. Before this campaign is over, the Democrats will be giving away Dewey's book as campaign literature helping their cause no end.

Dever also defended the budget with its 85 per cent for military expenses. He challenged the Republicans to show where the budget can be cut. The Republicans will have to try to meet that challenge during the campaign because the Democrats will obviously press the point. Unfortunately, the Republican platform has to a great degree accepted the Administration's policies; therefore, they must accept the cost of administering those policies.

The Democrats have carefully laid their lines and now the Republicans can either take a battering at their hands or the offensive and go after corruption. In a word, the Republicans must muddle or they will have little to say. This seems to have become the challenge of this speech.

That Body of Yours

LIVER A GREAT BLOOD BUILDER

When Drs. Minot and Murphy discovered that about five ounces of calf's liver eaten daily by patients would prevent death from pernicious anemia, up to that time always fatal, it ranked with the discovery of insulin by Drs. Banting and Best, by the use of which diabetes could be controlled and thousands of useful lives are now being saved. Fortunately it is no longer necessary to eat calf's liver or the liver of other animals, as extract of liver can be used.

Then when it was found that folic acid would enrich the blood as well as liver or liver extract, there was naturally a great switchover to folic acid for pernicious anemia. However, it was found that while folic acid enriched the blood by increasing the number of red cells carrying iron (hemoglobin) and also increased the amount of iron in these red cells, it nevertheless did not correct the nervous symptoms which are a distressing part of the disease. Accordingly these patients were once again given liver and liver extract which enriched the blood and gave relief from the nervous symptoms.

In the medical journal, Blood, Dr. R. B. Chodas and J. F. Ross, New York, found that folic acid alone did not prevent development of degeneration in 12 of 22 patients treated for from 12 to 25 months. In one patient with anemia who had gastrectomy (removal of stomach), combined degeneration developed after five months. Neurological (nervous) disease did not develop in six pernicious anemia patients treated with folic acid and also liver extract for 31 to 39 months. In 10 pernicious anemia patients with good nutrition, nervous relapses did not progress when liver extract or vitamin B12 treatment was given even though folic acid treatment was continued.

Apparently it is when stomach symptoms occur that the folic acid treatment is not sufficient to prevent degeneration and so liver extract must be given in addition to the folic acid to get complete results in pernicious anemia.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DEWEY PEARSON

Chicago — There were some tense moments during the Democrats' battles over the loyalty oath and the seating of the southern delegates.

Bitterest of all was South Carolina's Governor Jimmie Byrnes who at times trembled with rage. More moderate leaders among the southern delegates maneuvered to keep him off the rostrum. Almost equally bitter was Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia.

Instead, the more moderate southern leaders were carefully picked as spokesmen. Sen. Laverne Swope, one of that state's delegates, received $500 by mail. However when Ira Masters, also of Idaho, got wind of it, he protested to State Senator George, who in turn sent a telegram to Mrs. Swope, with a copy to Masters. Swope's motive because the telegram read: "Regarding that $500 give $250 to Masters."

Later, when Senator Kerr met with the Idaho delegation he apologized for the incident. "I want people to know that I paid my own way to Chicago," Dole explained. Reports of Kerr's money being used to pay expenses of delegates was on the minds of various delegates. For instance, H. S. Dole, a delegate from Kansas, who wanted to vote for Kerr, announced in a caucus that he was not going to do so.

"I want people to know that I paid my own way to Chicago," Dole explained. Reports of Kerr's money being used to pay expenses of delegates was on the minds of various delegates. For instance, H. S. Dole, a delegate from Kansas, who wanted to vote for Kerr, announced in a caucus that he was not going to do so.

When Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas saw it, however, he objected. "I can take the oath," he said, "if you omit this section"—referring to the second part of Senator George's proposal.

Its omission was immediately agreed to. During the private discussions over seating of the southern delegates, Sen. Earle Clement was the roughest of all southerners. Sore over Vice President Barkley's retirement from the race, he used caustic, bitter language toward young Roosevelt and others.

"At least my family for generations has voted the Democratic ticket," he said, referring to Elliott Roosevelt's deviation to the GOP.

Other committee members recalled that no one in years had done so much for the party as the man who happened to be Elliott's father.

How much money was put up for the expenses of delegates or buying delegates seldom leaks out during a national convention. At this convention there probably was relatively little, due in part to an advance expose of Sen. Robert S. Kerr's mysterious emissary from Kansas, State Senator Bob George. He was the man who turned up in California and bought $1,600 worth of free railroad tickets to Chicago, which he tried to hand out to the California delegation, all of them pledged to Kefauver. Only two California delegates accepted his free travel.

George's hand also was apparent in Idaho, where Mrs. Laverne Swope, one of that state's delegates, received $500 by mail. However when Ira Masters, also of Idaho, got wind of it, he protested to State Senator George, who in turn sent a telegram to Mrs. Swope, with a copy to Masters. ## "The Voice of the Press"

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

The large majority of editors, while favoring some system of nationwide presidential primaries, feels that such primaries cannot replace national party conventions, and that primary candidate preferences should be binding on convention delegates for only so long as a delegate's state may provide. A rather large minority, fearing federal control through federal aid, argues that the separate states can provide a satisfactory system of primaries without federal legislation. But the majority view is that at least some form of federal coordination is required to achieve the uniformity necessary for effective primaries.

St. Louis (Mo.) Post Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "Most of the proponents of this major reform apparently favor the plan submitted to Congress by Senator Douglas and Representative Bennett. This would have Washington help each state to meet the expenses of a popular pre-convention vote. Such a test would not be binding on the party conventions, but it is hard to imagine the delegates going against the expressed preference of a majority of all the Republicans or all the Democrats in the country. . . . Senator Smathers wants to go even farther and submit a constitutional amendment calling for binding, direct presidential primaries."

Fort Worth (Texas) Star-Telegram (Ind.-Dem.): "Both these proposed methods have their advantages, although the constitutional amendment procedure would offer the greater certainty of uniformity in the primaries of the various states. Uniformity is one of the prime needs of such a system, provided it is uniformity that makes sure the choice expressed by the voters prevails. It matters not so much whether a national nominating convention is held by the various parties as that the choice of the voters be binding upon the delegates to such conventions."

Washington (D.C.) News (Ind.): "Primary elections in all of the states, for the selection of delegates to the national conventions, such as have been proposed in many quarters, would be a vast improvement over the prevailing arrangement. . . . Primaries probably could not be made a complete substitute for the national conventions. Preferential voting by states probably would not indicate a clear majority for any candidate in many cases. Conventions would be necessary."

Buffalo, N. Y. (AP)—A prayer was answered for devout little Joan Blanco when a local contractor—with an assist from a news photographer and his newspaper—gave Joan a shiny new bicycle. The Courier-Express ran too, to adopt the party platforms and to maintain the party identity."

Wichita (Kans.) Eagle (Ind.): "Senator Douglas backs a bill to permit the attorney general to make financial agreements under certain conditions with states willing to hold presidential primaries. . . . Under the Douglas plan the primary would be financed by the federal government up to 20 cents for each voter. An objection to that would be that the federal government would then want to make all the rules, cutting the states out. . . . There are plenty of problems to be ironed out in connection with such a primary."

Pensacola (Fla.) Journal (Ind.-Dem.): "A step to encourage presidential primaries was taken by a Senate committee when it reported favorably a bill making federal funds available for presidential primaries in states which adopt them. . . . The bill calls for the attorney general to certify candidates' names on petition by 500 qualified voters in each of three-fourths of the states. . . . The states could settle other details, such as how long a favorable vote for a candidate should be considered binding on the delegates."

Cleveland (Ohio) Plain Dealer (Ind.-Dem.): "The Constitution leaves to the individual states the power to determine how the elections in each shall be conducted. . . . We believe direct participation of voters of every state in selecting presidential candidates can be achieved without constitutional amendment or federal legislation, if both major parties will openly and squarely declare themselves in favor of presidential primaries and call upon legislators in the states that are deficient in this respect to pass the necessary legislation."

Charlotte (N.C.) News (Ind.-Dem.): "The convention system lends itself to abuse by party bosses. Yet Abraham Lincoln, Grover Cleveland, Teddy Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt were products of the convention system, just as were William McKinley, Warren Harding, and Harry Truman. . . . Nationwide primaries will not be a major improvement unless (1) all states hold them at the same time and under the same rules, (2) all primaries are entered in all primaries, and (3) a larger cross-section of the voting population participates."

Miss Natalie Murray Becomes Bride Today
Of John B. Tokarczyk in St. Joseph's Church

Miss Natalie Ann Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis T. Murray, 50 Johnston avenue, was married this morning to John B. Tokarczyk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Tokarczyk of Forestville, Conn., in St. Joseph's Church. The Rt. Rev. Stephen P. Connelly, pastor, officiated at the ceremony and was celebrant of the nuptial Mass that followed. He also read the papal blessing. A reception was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Frank W. Rafferty, organist. The soloist, John Brophy, sang Panis Angelicus Ave Maria and Mother Beloved. The church was decorated with white snapdragons, gladioli and palms. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin, fashioned with sheer tulle yoked edge with lace, lace bouffant nylon tulle skirt terminating in a circular train. Her finger-ring length veil of French illusion fell from a matching lace headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, roses and stephanotis.

Miss Jane Ann Forst of 32 Maiden Lane was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were sisters of the bridegroom, the Misses Isabelle and Wanda Tokarczyk. They were attired in gowns of white organza over Madonna blue tulle with matching headpieces of blue flowers, and carried colonial bouquets of yellow sweetheart roses, delphinium and gypsophylla.

Richard Anderson of Providence, R. I., was best man. The ushers were Robert Cummings of Kerhonkson, Victor Gorlach, New York, and Laniel Nossals, Stamford, Conn. The couple left for a wedding trip. For traveling, the bride wore a silk shantung suit in Dior blue with white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Tokarczyk was graduated from the Academy of St. Ursula. She attended Albertus Magnus College, New Haven, Conn., and received her bachelor of arts degree, summa cum laude, from New York State College for Teachers, Albany. She has done graduate work at Columbia University.

Mr. Tokarczyk was graduated from the Cheshire Academy, Cheshire, Conn., and the University of Connecticut. During World War 2, he served with the U. S. Army Air Force in the European theatre and is associated with the Shelby Mutual Company in Hartford, Conn.

First regular U. S. Army man to become president was Zachary Taylor.

GOOD TASTE
TODAYBy EMILY POST
(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)SHE IS NOT
'MRS. JANE ALICE'

A wife writes: "My mother-in-law and I live in the same apartment house. Instead of calling herself Mrs. Henry Brown, she calls herself Mrs. Jane Alice Brown. My husband's name is James Arthur Brown. This morning a letter arrived for Mrs. J. A. Brown and the mailman put it in my box. However, when I opened it, it was for my mother-in-law and was of a very personal nature which I am sure she would not like me to see. Will you please tell me what to do, and please hurry as I am holding the letter awaiting your answer."

There is nothing you can do but take it up to her and tell her "I'm sorry, I could not know it was not for me until I opened it." As a matter of fact, that would not have occurred if your mother-in-law used her correct name, which is Mrs. Henry Brown.

Husband Won't Dance
Dear Mrs. Post: My husband does not like to dance and refuses to go to them. I, on the other hand, love to dance and see no reason why I should stay away from club dances because he will not go with me. Would it be permissible for me to go with a group of married friends, without my husband? He doesn't mind himself, but he thinks I will be criticized for this.

Answer: If you go very rarely, it is quite all right, but to go constantly would certainly cause criticism.

Look Elsewhere
Dear Mrs. Post: Every once in a while when I am walking on the street someone whose face is not familiar bows to me and I never know whether to bow and pretend to recognize the person, or ignore this seeming stranger. I am especially in doubt when the stranger is a man.

Answer: When in doubt, don't see him.

Same as Parents
Dear Mrs. Post: On the many birth announcements that I have received I noticed that on some of them the baby's full name is printed, and, on the others, just his given name. As I am expecting a baby very soon, I would like to know which is correct.

Answer: The surname is left off—the middle name is often included with the first name.

On what occasion does a gentleman lift his hat or remove it? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, however, her leaflet E-15; "Manners in Public," includes answers to the above question. Route Is Announced For Harding Expressway

Albany, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—The Public Works Department announced yesterday the route for the proposed Horace Harding expressway extension through Lake Success, Nassau county.

The department said the route was determined "following extensive studies" of possible alternatives through the heavily populated Long Island county.

The expressway will depart from the existing Horace Harding Boulevard at 252nd street, from this point, it will curve easterly to extend through the Deepdale Golf and Country Club property, then to the north of the District No. 7 Union Free School, and join the existing line of Power House road at the intersection of New Hyde Park road.

The department said the decision to go through the country club grounds was based on "property values, number of homes that would be involved, as well as governing engineering considerations."

Police Hunt Slayer
of Queens Woman

New York, July 26 (AP)—Police searched today for the strangulation-slayer of a 23-year-old pregnant woman whose body was found last night sprawled in a Queens street.

The victim, reddish-blond Mrs. Josephine Brown of 343 Willis avenue Mineola, N. Y., was not robbed. A wrist watch and gold and diamond wedding and engagement rings were found on her. Her wallet, containing a dollar bill and some small change, was untouched.

A string of pearls she wore were twisted into her neck and her body bore other bruises. Assistant medical examiner Jacob Werne attributed death to strangulation.

Mrs. Brown was fully clothed, but one shoe, a light jacket and her handbag were scattered near the body.

Police notified the woman's husband, Russell E. Brown, 30, a mechanic employed by the toy firm of Renwald Manufacturing Company, Mineola.

Brown said his wife left after dinner to go shopping. He said his wife expected a baby in about five months.

The woman's body was discovered by a passing motorist.

Jersey Delegates Key
In Nomination Drive

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—Hard-driving New Jersey delegates, a key group in the successful drive to nominate Adlai Stevenson as Democratic presidential candidate, rejoiced today as they awaited a vice presidential vote.

Through three hectic convention ballots, the state's 28 Stevenson votes held fast.

Just before the motion to make the nomination of the Illinois governor unanimous, New Jersey was waving its standard, seeking recognition from the floor.

Kefauver's four supporters had decided to make Jersey's 32 votes unanimous for Stevenson.

While most delegates said they were too numb with fatigue for comment, they felt that the party had nominated a strong candidate to run in the November election.

Regrets Tanker Delivery

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Military and economic aid to Denmark will be continued. But President Truman, in ordering it yesterday, said the United States deeply regrets Denmark's delivery of a 13,000-ton oil tanker to Russia on July 7.

More Spotters
For Local Post

The following are additional spotters who have volunteered their services as 'skywatchers' for the Kingston ground observer post atop the Governor Clinton Hotel: James Hanstein, Mabel Brady, Alice N. Hart, Ruth R. Bollin, Luella M. Wright, Jeanette Carson, Eugene Brossard, Stanley Dempsey, Paula Davidson, Chole M. Comstock, Doris Eckert, Faye Davis, Douglas Creamer, Virginia Ackert, Gertrude C. Cable, Clifford J. Bell and Carl C. Terry.

Mrs. George D. Logan, head of the ground observer post, said that the local volunteer 'skywatchers' are a part of the more than 150,000 volunteers throughout the United States who are on shifts at about 6,000 stations in 27 states stretched across the northern rim of the nation.

Warning Is Issued
On Highway Dumping

Clarence Rappleyea, justice of the peace for the town of Ulster, today reported that state police are now conducting an extensive check for persons who have been dumping garbage and other refuse on county and town highways in the Ulster township.

Rappleyea said that the probe will continue and warned that "persons responsible will be prosecuted."

Shoe Factory Guttled

New York, July 26 (AP)—A short but spectacular fire early today gutted a Brooklyn shoe factory and caused an estimated $250,000 damage. The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined and there were no injuries. The four-alarm fire broke out in the fourth floor of a five-story brick building in the Williamsburg section and spread to the top floor. Both floors were occupied by the Preston shoe factory.

Injured in Fall

New York, July 26 (AP)—Arlene Conte, 23, of 731 North Barry avenue, Mamaroneck, N. Y., was seriously injured at 4:35 a. m. today when she fell or jumped from the roof of a four-story building at 145 West 65th street, police reported. Miss Conte, who was unable to give police a coherent account of what had happened, was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where she was reported to have suffered a fractured pelvis, in addition to other injuries.

Connecticut Proud Of Aid to Stevenson

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—Connecticut's delegates spoke proudly of the nudge they gave to the Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson bandwagon which rolled him today to the Democratic presidential nomination.

They made no claim that the shift of their 16 votes from their own Sen. Brien McMahon to Stevenson was decisive. But they said it helped and they rejoiced that theirs was the first state to jump over to him at the close of the first roll call.

John M. Golden of New Haven, the new national committeeman said: "Connecticut contributed materially to his nomination when it became the first state to swing to him after it had first voted for Brien McMahon in a deserved tribute to him."

Through ill in a Washington hospital, leaders said, McMahon himself had suggested the early switch to Stevenson. The Senator, said his administrative assistant, John D. Lane, wanted Connecticut to line up quickly for the "man who Senator McMahon believes will be the next president of the United States."

Shuts Off Orders

Washington, July 26 (AP)—The air force has shut off its orders for B-36 heavy bombers. Deliveries under existing orders will run into 1954. Announcing this yesterday, an air force spokesman said the big B-36 with combination jet and piston engines "will be supplanted eventually by other types."

While most delegates said they were too numb with fatigue for comment, they felt that the party had nominated a strong candidate to run in the November election.

Regrets Tanker Delivery

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Military and economic aid to Denmark will be continued, but President Truman, in ordering it yesterday, said the United States deeply regrets Denmark's delivery of a 13,000-ton oil tanker to Russia on July 7.

'Human Cannonball' at
9W Drive-In Theatre

The Great Wilno, the "Human Cannonball," will bring his death-defying thrill-provoking act to the 9-W Drive-In, a Walter Reade Theatre on the Saugerties Road just north of the Kingston Bypass, Kingston, on Sunday and Monday, August 10 and 11, it was announced today by manager Hervey Keator.

The circus act features Wilno as the human projectile who is fired from a nine-ton, 25-foot long cannon more than 200 feet through the air into a tiny net. The performance will be an extra added attraction to the regular screen show, at no increase in normal admission.

Wilno, who for many years was a featured attraction with the Ringling, Barnum and Bailey Circus, wears a white, fire-proof suit, helmet and mask for the danger stunt. He enters the mouth of the cannon, feet first, while the tremendous barrel is elevated to a 45-degree angle. A few seconds later a tremendous explosion shoots him into space with a velocity no other human projectile has ever attained. He flies more than 100 feet up into the air into a 30 x 15 foot net over 200 feet away.

He will be at the Drive-In at approximately 10 p. m., in addition to giving a free demonstration for children of the area each afternoon he is at the Drive-In.

Easy Winners
Helsinki, July 26 (AP)—The United States 400 meter relay team, with 200-meter champion Andy Stanfield running the anchor leg, breezed to an easy victory in the first qualifying heat at the Olympic games today. France was second.

LITTLE LIZ

Some politicians start out by taking it easy and wind up by just taking it.

Connecticut Proud

Of Aid to Stevenson

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—Connecticut's delegates spoke proudly of the nudge they gave to the Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson bandwagon which rolled him today to the Democratic presidential nomination.

They made no claim that the shift of their 16 votes from their own Sen. Brien McMahon to Stevenson was decisive. But they said it helped and they rejoiced that theirs was the first state to jump over to him at the close of the first roll call.

John M. Golden of New Haven, the new national committeeman said:

"Connecticut contributed materially to his nomination when it became the first state to swing to him after he had first voted for Brien McMahon in a deserved tribute to him."

Through ill in a Washington hospital, leaders said, McMahon himself had suggested the early switch to Stevenson. The Senator, said his administrative assistant, John D. Lane, wanted Connecticut to line up quickly for the "man who Senator McMahon believes will be the next president of the United States."

Shuts Off Orders

Washington, July 26 (AP)—The air force has shut off its orders for B-36 heavy bombers. Deliveries under existing orders will run into 1954. Announcing this yesterday, an air force spokesman said the big B-36 with combination jet and piston engines "will be supplanted eventually by other types."

The Egyptians made keys and locks entirely of wood.

More Spotters
For Local Post

The following are additional spotters who have volunteered their services as "skywatchers" for the Kingston ground observer post atop the Governor Clinton Hotel: James Hanstein, Mabel Brady, Alice N. Hart, Ruth R. Bolin, Luella M. Wright, Jeanie Carson, Eugene Brossard, Stanley Dempsey, Paula Davidson, Chole M. Comstock, Doris Eckert, Faye Davis, Douglas Creamer, Virginia Ackert, Gertrude C. Cable, Clifford J. Bell and Carl C. Terry.

Mrs. George D. Logan, head of the ground observer post, said that the local volunteer "skywatchers" are a part of the more than 150,000 volunteers throughout the United States who are on shifts at about 6,000 stations in 27 states stretched across the northern rim of the nation.

Warning Is Issued
On Highway Dumping

Clarence Rappleyea, justice of the peace for the town of Ulster, today reported that state police are now conducting an extensive check for persons who have been dumping garbage and other refuse on county and town highways in the Ulster township.

Rappleyea said that the probe will continue and warned that "persons responsible will be prosecuted."

Shoe Factory Guttled

New York, July 26 (AP)—A short but spectacular fire early today gutted a Brooklyn shoe factory and caused an estimated $250,000 damage. The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined and there were no injuries. The four-alarm fire broke out in the fourth floor of a five-story brick building in the Williamsburg section and spread to the top floor. Both floors were occupied by the Preston shoe factory.

Injured in Fall

New York, July 26 (AP)—Arlene Conte, 23, of 731 North Barry avenue, Mamaroneck, N. Y., was seriously injured at 4:35 a. m. today when she fell or jumped from the roof of a four-story building at 145 West 65th street, police reported. Miss Conte, who was unable to give police a coherent account of what had happened, was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where she was reported to have suffered a fractured pelvis; in addition to other injuries.

Lincoln—Why, you see, it reminds me of Mrs. Sallie Ward, a neighbor of mine. She had a very large family. Occasionally one of her numerous progeny would be heard crying in some out-of-the-way place, and she would exclaim, "There's one of my children that isn't dead yet."

KAA Little League Selects 14-Player Roster for All Star Squad

Red Sox Defeat Yankees, 11-8; Tie for First Place in KAA League

The oncoming Red Sox moved into a first place tie in the second half of the KAA Little League by topping the Yankees from the unbeaten ranks, 11 to 8, yesterday at the 156th FA diamond.

In the final league action until the District 3 tournament is completed several days hence, the Sox built up an early lead and rode out the storm.

Charlie Boice went the distance for the Sox who handed the Yankees their first loss in four starts but was hit hard in the middle frames. The Sox led 10-1 when the Yankees came up with five runs in the third and two more in the fourth but Boice settled down to pitch shutout ball in the vital fifth and sixth innings.

The Yankees used three pitchers. Danny Steltz and Charlie Alan following starter Joe Clark. The Sox collected eight hits off the trio and were aided by 11 bases on balls. Boice was nipped for 11 safeties by the Yankees.

Steltz maintained his stratospheric batting average with three singles in four trips. Victor Locke, Hank Cherick and Paul Klonowski each tagged two singles for the losers.

The batting star of the game was Tom Van Etten, the Red Sox's All Star second sacker, who clouted two doubles and two singles for his best batting performance of the season. Boice added his own cause with two singletons.

Bob Mathias Heads For 2nd Straight Decathlon Title

Helsinki, July 26 (AP)—Bob Mathias, the defending champion from Tulare, Calif., increased his lead in the Olympic decathlon today while assorted other athletes continued the business of methodically wrecking Olympic records.

Mathias, who set a world record in the American decathlon tryouts, dominated the two events run off this morning.

After seven events, he had a total of 6,999 points heading the three-man American delegation at the top of the scoring list. Milton Campbell, 18-year-old Plainfield, N. J., schoolboy, held second place with 5,704 points and Floyd Simmons of Los Angeles was third with 5,303.

Ignace Heinrich of France, second to Mathias in the 1948 Olympic decathlon at London and the leading threat to American supremacy here, dropped out of the competition after six events because of a twisted ankle. Sepp Hipp of Germany moved into the fourth spot with 5,044 points.

The remaining three decathlon events will be run off this afternoon.

The 24th Olympic record of the regular track and field competition was broken right at the start of the qualifying trials in the women's shot put. Klavdia Tochennova of Russia threw the shot 45 feet 6.45 inches to shatter the Olympic mark of 45 feet 1.33 inches set by France's Michelen Ostermeyer in 1948.

Swimmers Start

The swimmers, starting their part of the Olympic program, got right into the record breaking act. Eva Novak of Hungary, world record holder in the women's 200-meter breast stroke mark with a 2:55.1 performance. Two American entries failed to qualify when Gail Peters of Washington finished sixth in one heat and Judy Cornell of Portland, Ore., seventh in another.

Mathias, although trailing his own world record pace, was all-

City League Benefit Game Sunday

City Baseball League players set aside their regular schedule Sunday to play a benefit game for one of their stricken members—Big Sal Misasi.

Misasi, a member of the Jones Dairy squad, "threw out" his arm a few weeks ago while pitching in a league contest.

Two all-star arrays headed by Johnny Schatzel, the Jones pilot, and Bill Davis of the Colonial Merchants will meet in the benefit feature at 6 p. m. Sunday evening.

All of the top talent in the two circuits has been recruited for the two teams. The "Jones Dairy" contingent will have Tommy Fisher, Jerry Bechtold and Ernie McCormick for three-inning stunts, while the "Merchants" can counter with George Magley, George Telepas and Angie Fondina.

City League officials predict a brisk contest and have made special appeals to the two patrons to turn out in large numbers for this worthy cause.

Two rumors recurrent in bowling for several weeks have not crystallized into fact and from here it looks like the city's army of kreglers will have to operate with cramped schedules and unusual bowling times during the 1952-53 campaign.

The first rumor had Reta Frederick and a syndicate building alleys at various locations. Mrs. Frederick has neither confirmed nor denied such rumors but the fact that the No-Can-Do League was willing to settle for a Friday 10 p. m. spot at the Central Recreation alleys is regarded by alley-wise folks as a sure sign Mrs. Frederick's building plans are not calculated for the 1952-53 season.

If Mrs. Frederick were building new alleys, you would hardly expect to find the No-Can-Do loop at Sangi's. The second report dealt with a New Yorker who allegedly caused several locations in Kingston and said he would install 12 alleys "somewhere along the highway." Although the gentleman has made frequent visits to the city, he has yet to make an official announcement regarding building plans.

Meanwhile, John Ferraro and John Sangi, have blueprints for expansion already drawn up, but each has shown an understandable caution and reserve. The bowling industry today is not the bonanza many folks would have you believe. Only last week, the once-powerful Peter Parkas chain—embracing six of New York city's largest establishments—was put up for sale as a unit. Nearly a dozen famous landmarks have gone under in the Metropolitan area within the last year.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Bowlers can gear themselves for the 40-cent rate for next season. The Hudson Valley Bowling Proprietors' Association met in Kingston Tuesday night to review conditions in the industry and make preliminary plans for the national match game eliminations in this district. The 40-cent talk was prevalent and don't be surprised if it's passed on to the consumer. Bernie Levine, the genial proprietor of the Dutchess Recreation, has taken on a tavern as a new sideline. Steve Nagy, the great Cleveland star, established a new ABC individual cashing record when he won $1965 in the 1952 tournament. Chuck O'Donnell, St. Louis who won $1809 in the 1949 AEC was the former record holder for individual earnings. Orchids to Dot Khedderian for her spanning 570 series in the Sangi Mixer. Local keepers who have been waiting patiently for state tournament checks will be glad to know that the last batch went into the mails yesterday.

Shirley Van Kleeck and Altrude Palmer of the weaker sex helped the New Paltz male relay swimming team cop first place in the first annual Hudson Valley Invitational last Sunday at Highland. The meet was a huge success and is sure to become a fixture in the annual swimming calendar for the county. Paul Freer, the eminent Yankee roster who is free-lancing these days, like Leo Pold, never lost his faith in the Yankees. "We'll out-scare them into the pennant," says Paul. "They all shoot scared pool when they meet the Yankees." Satchel Paige is the toughest pitcher to catch according to Darrell Johnson, the Browns' rookie receiver. "Satch is tough," claims Johnson, "because he fools around out there so much. A catcher gives him a signal, he fiddles around, takes his time, gives it a howdy-do and by the time he actually pitches, Satch has forgotten what the catcher signalled."

Thomas Orr will be installed as Kingston Bowling Association president at the organization's annual meeting on Wednesday, Aug. 13, at Twaalfskill Golf Club. He succeeds Emmanuel Colao, the interim president, who has served for the past couple of months.

Don't sell Saugerties short in the forthcoming District 3 Little League tournament. The upriver league, in its first year, has brilliant pitching and great power. Incidentally, the original date for the Little League World Series final in Williamsport, Pa., has been switched from Aug. 30 to the 29th. The starting date, Aug. 26, remains the same. The reason for the change is not to conflict with the Labor Day weekend.

most the whole shot in the decathlon. He ran his heat in 110 meter hurdles in 14.7 seconds, good for 813 points, and threw the discus 46.89 meters (153 feet 10.66 inches for 838 more). At the same stage in the American tryouts he had scored 6,208 points enroute to a world record total of 7,825 points.

Japs in Spotlight

The start of the swimming competition also brought Japanese athletes back into the spotlight for the first time in 16 years as Y. Hamaguchi won the first final heat of the 100-meter dash and Hiroshi Suzuki pushed America's Dick Cleveland of Ohio State University hard in another heat. In a mild upset, Sweden's Goren Larsson beat Clark Scholes of Michigan State College in a 100 meters heat but he had to make the fast time of 57.5 seconds to do it. Ronald Gora of Chicago also won his heat.

Basketball was the only other "major" sport on the morning program and the favored American team beat Czechoslovakia 72-47. In other games Uruguay beat Hungary, 70-56 and Bulgaria whipped Mexico 52-44.

With Mathias almost a certainty to win one gold medal, the United States had a chance for a second in today's track and field competition in the 1,500 meters run.

Golfers Are Busy In Weekend Play

Area golfers will be occupied with several types of competition this weekend.

Topping the calendar is the two-day Cerebral Palsy tournament which starts today at Twaalfskill Golf Club. This is an 18-hole handicap medal tournament with the entire proceeds going to the local palsy campaign fund.

Tournament chairman, Floyd W. Flint, said he expected a record turnout for this event which is open to women and men. The tournament may be played today or Sunday and scores will be accepted as qualifying medals for the annual club championships.

Wiltwyck Golf Club starts the first of a series of "gold days" with Catskill and Hudson golf clubs Sunday at Hudson. Each club will be host in turn.

Beat Japs Twice In Cup Zone Play

Cincinnati, July 26 (AP)—Team captain Billy Talbert of New York and Gardiner Mulloy of Miami, Fla., can wrap up a United States victory over Japan today in the first round of the Davis Cup tennis eliminations.

They're the nation's No. 1 doubles team and they'll be matched against Jiro Kumamaru and Fumituro Nakano.

Kumamaru was one of the Japanese victims yesterday as the United States team romped into a 2 to 0 lead with triumphs in both of the opening matches.

Kumamaru's soft shots caused some trouble for Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., but the unpredictable American southpaw's more diverse array of shots finally paid off with a 6-4, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4 victory.

For a few minutes it looked as if Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, the nation's No. 1 singles player, might be headed for a sound beating at the hands of youthful Atsushi Miyagi, but the big American finally got his bearings and ripped off a 6-3, 6-1, 6-0 triumph.

Miyagi, a slender youngster who doesn't look his 20 years of age, won the first three games of his match against the bigger and more powerful Seixas. That was his last spurge, however.

The Cleveland Indians, counted out as a pennant threat early this week, are back in business once again.

When the league-leading New York Yankees dumped the Indians 7½ games off the pace by sweeping a doubleheader Tuesday, it looked like curtains for the Tribe. But the Indians bounced back, knocking the Yankees off twice. Last night they whipped Washington, 4-2, and took over third place from the Senators, 4½ games behind New York and only ½ back of second place Boston.

Yanks In Slump

The Yanks, meanwhile, suffered their third straight loss as they bowed to the Tigers in Detroit, 2-1. The Red Sox remained four games astern of the Bombers by dropping a 3-2 squeaker to the St. Louis Browns. The Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago White Sox divided a two-night doubleheader, the White Sox winning the opener, 5-0 and the A's the second game, 5-4.

In the National League, New York Giants defeated Cincinnati, 3-1, in the major's only day game and climbed to within 5½ games of Brooklyn's pace-setting Dodgers. The St. Louis Cardinals trounced the Dodgers, 8-4, while in other games, Pittsburgh shaded Boston, 3-2, and Chicago belted Philadelphia, 7-2.

Early Wynn allowed the Senators only six hits in besting Bob Porterfield, Wynn blanked Washington after the first inning in hanging up his 11th victory. Home runs by Jim Hegan and Larry Doby featured Cleveland's seven hit attack. Doby clouted his 18th homer in the fourth to break a 2-2 tie.

Former Yankee Steve Souchock homered in the ninth on Bob Kuzava's first pitch to fracture a 1-1 tie and beat his old mates. Mickey Mantle clouted his 14th homer in the fourth off Tiger Art Houtteman and that was all the scoring until the eighth when Johnny Groth tied it up with a two-out run-scoring single, 8-3.

The Browns nudged rookie Bob Brodowski for only three hits but they bunched two of them along with two walks in the seventh inning to beat the Red Sox. Bobby Young's two-run triple featured the uprising. Home runs by Hoot Evers and Dick Gernert accounted for all of Boston's runs off Tommy Byrne.

Jim Hearn was the whole show in the Giants triumph over Cincinnati. He limited the Reds to four hits and won his own game with a two-run homer in the fifth. The Cards snapped a 4-4 tie in the seventh when relief pitcher Ed Yuhas doubled home the run. The Red Birds sewed it up with three more in the ninth off loser Johnny Schmitz.

Legion Practice

The American Legion baseball squad of the Fraternal Youth League will work out at municipal stadium on Sunday at 4 p. m. All players are requested to attend.

The most men from any one team ever selected for the All-Star game was eight from the St. Louis Cardinals in 1943.

Bobby Thomson of the Giants who was born in Glasgow, Scotland, was the only member of the 1952 National League All-Star team born in a foreign land.

ELKS CLUB SQUAD IN FRATERNAL YOUTH LEAGUE

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Steve Souchock, Tigers, homered in ninth inning to give Detroit 2-1 victory of the New York Yankees.

The STANDINGS

Behind the stout four-hit pitching of Jim Uhl and Jack Houghtaling, the Rotarians defeated the powerful VFW combine, 6 to 2, before a good crowd yesterday at municipal stadium.

The victory left the Rotary as the only unbeaten team in the loop and accounted for the VFW's second loss in four starts. The American Legion is in second place with a 2-1 record.

Bob Bailey, the VFW starter, was shelled from the mound during a three-run Rotary rally in the fourth. The Rotary had tied the score 1-1 in the second and moved ahead to stay, 4-1. Uhl, the Rotary starter, needed help from Jack Houghtaling in the late innings. Houghtaling struck out six and clouted a double.

Uhl, who pitched the VFW to victory in his last start, pounded a double and single for the losers.

The regular FVL schedule returns to municipal stadium starting with Monday's game between the Police and Elks. Games are also carded on Tuesday and Thursday.

LEGAL NOTICE

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK BY THE GRACE OF GOD FREE AND INDEPENDENT TO:

MARIA GECZI SELVAK, SEND GREETING: WHEREAS, LAYMAN G. SNYDER, who resides at Margareville, Delaware County, New York, has presented a petition praying for a decree that a certain instrument in writing, bearing date the 1st day of December, 1947, be duly proved as the Last Will and Testament of STEPHEN GECZI, late of the Town of Shandaken, County of Ulster and State of New York.

NOW, THEREFORE, you are hereby cited to show cause before our Surrogate's Court of the County of Ulster, to be held at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, on the 2nd day of September, 1952, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why such a decree should not be made and also why Letters of Administration with the will annexed should not issue thereon.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, we have caused the Seal of our said Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed. WITNESS, HON. JOHN B. STERLEY, Surrogate of the County of Ulster at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Kingston, N. Y., this 16th day of July, 1952.

Strike's End Cheers Workers

Jubilant steelworkers meet in front of the U. S. Steel plant in Gary, Ind., to cheer the news that the long steel strike was ended. The settlement came at a face-to-face meeting of CIO President Philip Murray and U. S. Steel President Benjamin Fairless at the White House, where they had been summoned by President Truman.

Freighter, Passenger Ships Are in Collision

Seattle, Wash., July 26 (AP)—A Greek freighter and an American passenger liner collided off British Columbia early today and at least two persons were believed killed, the coast guard said.

The Greek freighter Triton, a gaping hole ripped in its starboard side, was reported taking water but in no immediate danger of sinking.

Her skipper radioed that two members of the engine room crew were missing and presumed dead.

The Alaska Steamship Co., liner Baranof, bound for Ketchikan, Alaska, with 150 passengers and a crew of 100 had its bow stove in about eight feet above the water line, but was not seriously damaged, the coast guard said.

Captain Joseph Ramsauer of the Baranof reported that no one aboard the vessel was injured. The collision occurred about two miles off the entrance to Nanaimo harbor in the Strait of Georgia.

daily staff officer meetings "on the detailed wording of the draft armistice agreement."

Staff officers then met for 39 minutes and will meet again Sunday.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, the chief Communist negotiator, harangued the allies for insisting that no prisoner be repatriated against his will.

"In these meetings," Harrison said, "we have been restrained in our statements and have tried to be accurately faithful. Your statements on the other hand, have demonstrated utter hypocrisy. You have said we want to retain your personnel. What we know, what the world knows as a fact, is that those prisoners are afraid to be returned as slaves to the tender mercies of Communist control."

Wallace's Opinion

South Salem, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—Former Vice President Henry A. Wallace said today that both the Democrats and Republicans have picked "fine men" as their presidential candidates. But Wallace added that it was too early for him to make a choice between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the GOP nominee, and Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic candidate. Wallace, at his experimental farm here, said he was "out of politics."

of the strike" and the balance next July 1.

The industry and the union late last night were in total disagreement over a snag in the ore situation.

The union said ore companies which did not sign the White House memorandum of agreement were holding out for terms unacceptable to the union.

The mining companies said the union was insisting on working out fairly complete contract language before sending out back-to-work notices, not only in the ore mines, but in the steel mills too.

There appeared to be no real fear that the White House agreement and its ratification by the union's policy committee would not sooner or later get produced.

But officials said they were afraid no new steel would be poured over the weekend.

Shuns Trades, Deals

Even during the first ballot, when the nomination came, there was maneuvering by the "liberals" to try to give Senator Kefauver the limelight and line things up so it would appear that he put over Stevenson with Tennessee's votes. But the lengthy polling of big delegations stalled it all and finally Stevenson won without the aid of any state that had a vice-presidential hopeful.

It was a clear-cut victory for those who managed the Stevenson campaign knowing that he didn't want to be entangled with any group or faction in the party. He wanted no trades or deals.

The Truman speech, with its hyperbole and political bombast, was delivered in typical campaign style. Governor Stevenson will in his own way state the campaign issues, and he will not fail to admit mistakes—something President Truman never has done.

It will be a refreshing change in campaigning. When Mr. Truman walked away from the rostrum after introducing Adlai Stevenson, it was as if old fashioned buncombe had given way to a new spirit—a spirit of candor and frankness in appealing to the American people. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

Harriman's withdrawal from the race was decided at a conference held during the dinner recess after the second ballot.

Roosevelt, Lehman, Fitzpatrick and a number of leaders of district delegates, most of them from New York city, repaired to Harriman's quarters—known as "The Dugout"—on the balcony of the convention hall.

No one seemed to know, or at least cared to say, who proposed the formal surrender.

President Truman, who was dining at the convention hall's Saddle and Sirlon Club, was reported to have suggested that Harriman and Gov. Dever of Massachusetts, a favorite son, withdraw in favor of Stevenson.

Second Division troops solidified their positions at the bottom of nearby T-Bone Hill after repulsing a Chinese battalion early yesterday with heavy Red losses.

Elsewhere, only three patrol skirmishes were reported.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force headquarters said bad weather prevented fighter-bomber and interceptor sorties Saturday morning, although light bombers flew missions along the battlefield in close support of allied ground troops.

Fifth Air Force headquarters Saturday reported the loss of eight allied planes during the week ending Friday—none in aerial combat.

Five were downed by Communist ground fire and the other three were lost to unknown causes.

F-86 Sabrejets spotted Communist MIG-15 jets on only two days during the week. Allied pilots reported three MIGs damaged.

Two Persons Injured In Onteora Accident

Two people were injured in a two car accident about 8 a. m. today on the Onteora Trail when one car, traveling west, attempted to turn in at the Maggorie fruit stand and the second car traveling to Kingston struck it in the middle.

Edward Johnson, 59, 6126 156th street, Flushing, was turning left to the fruit stand. Mrs. Johnson received a bruise on the right arm and was taken to the Benedictine Hospital for an examination.

George L. Schmultz, 21, Cottekill, told Deputy Sheriff Arthur Smith he had been unable to stop. The right front of the car he was operating was damaged and the windshield broken. James Garrison, 17, West Hurley, a hitch hiker, was cut about the head and had an injury to the right knee. Both cars were towed from the scene.

Woman Found Shot

New York, July 26 (AP)—A woman was found shot to death early today on a sidewalk near her home in Brooklyn. Police identified her as Mrs. Mabel Glover, 42. They held two men for questioning. One said he was escorting her home when he heard a shot and saw her fall dead. The other was described as a neighbor of Mrs. Glover.

Wyant Is Injured, Keyser Fined $10

Edward Wyant, 25, of 65 Wrentham street, an employee of the Thompson Laundry, was in serious condition at the Benedictine Hospital where he was taken following a two car accident on Route 9W north of the Glasco road Friday afternoon. He suffered a fractured skull.

Donald Keyser, 19, of 25 Broadway, Kingston, was arrested by state police from the Kingston station on a charge of operating the laundry truck without a license and was fined $10 by Judge Glenford Myers of Saugerties.

State police reported the vehicle of Fred Mayone and son of Saugerties, driven by Joseph Fabiano, 19, Glasco, was struck on the left rear by the right front of the laundry truck as the two cars were proceeding north. The laundry truck continued on off the road and through a fence to land on a lawn. Wyant was taken to the hospital by the Layton ambulance service of Saugerties. State Police indicated today that a charge of permitting an unlicensed operator to drive probably would be lodged against Wyant.

True lobsters are found only on the coast of the North Atlantic and the Mediterranean.

Retains Key Post

Tehran, Iran, July 26 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh presented his new cabinet to the Shah today retaining for himself the key post of minister of war. The post gives him life and death control over the armed forces and the final decision on maintaining a U. S. military mission on Iranian soil. The aged and ailing premier now wields more power than ever before. He had resigned July 16 when Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi refused to appoint him to head the war ministry.

Utica 'Hit' Again

Utica, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—This industrial center of 100,000—first upstate city to defend against a mythical A-bomb attack—was "hit" by another of the mock missiles today. Vailing sirens at 8:50 a. m. (E.D.T.) brought civil defense units on the double from Oneida, Herkimer and Oswego counties. The all-clear came 10 minutes later.

Papers Are Served Seeking New Trial For Edward Kelly

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn was served today with papers in the Edward H. Kelly, first degree murder case, by which the defendant's counsel seeks a new trial under the provisions of Section 463, Subdivision 7, claiming that a new trial evidence can be produced which will change the verdict of the jury. The motion for a new trial is returnable before County Judge John M. Cashin on Wednesday, July 30.

Judge Cashin now on vacation will be absent on that date and it is expected the matter will be adjourned by consent until August 5.

The application for a new trial is made by Whitman Knapp, who with Howard C. St. John appeared for Kelly on the second trial of the case.

Kelly stands convicted of murder, first degree, for the rifle slaying of Mrs. Eloise McHugh, 44, of Kingston on May 22, 1950, and is now in the death house at Sing Sing prison awaiting execution some time during the week of August 25.

An application for clemency has been made and will be heard by Governor Dewey on August 18. The Court of Appeals has affirmed the conviction of the second trial after sending the case back for retrial on the grounds of a technical error made at the first trial when that jury also found the defendant guilty.

The defendant's counsel made the present move for a new trial on the grounds that a psychologist at the prison who examined the defendant in February 1952, in his report stated that the defendant "could have" been suffering from "involuntary psychosis" at the time of the act but had since made a recovery.

At the trial the defendant alleged that he did not know what he was doing at the time of the shooting or for some time prior to the act. The expert called by the defense at the trial expressed an opinion that the defendant had been suffering from such a lapse of memory but the jury, after hearing that testimony from the defendant's expert medical witness, found the defendant guilty.

Shocks Continue
Tehachapi, Calif., July 26 (AP)—Aftershocks from Monday's big earthquake continue to shake southern California. A series of three shocks yesterday, one of them equal in intensity to the 1933 Long Beach disaster, caused two landslides in the Caliente creek area 35 miles east of Bakersfield. One slide damaged a pickup truck in which three men were riding, but they escaped injury. Two houses in the area were damaged. Sheriff's deputies evacuated four persons from their homes. No injuries were reported.

Mustering Out Pay
Washington, July 26 (AP)—First mustering out pay checks for about 500,000 army veterans of the Korean War period will be mailed from the Army Finance Center, St. Louis, Mo., about Aug. 15. The army announced yesterday that qualified veterans who have left the service since June 27, 1950, should apply to the finance center for the bonus payments authorized by Congress, including their separation forms with their applications.

Rhee Consents
Pusan, Korea, July 26 (AP)—South Korean President Syngman Rhee will stand for re-election on Aug. 7. He made no public statement, but today gave consent to his nomination by the Liberal party by fixing his seal to a legal statement of candidacy.

Truman Flies Home
Chicago, July 26 (AP)—President Truman and his official party took off for Kansas City in his plane, "The Independence," at 9:06, Eastern Standard Time, today from Municipal Airport. Included in the President's party was secretary of the treasury, John W. Snyder.

School Leaders To Hold Second Annual Meeting
New Paltz, July 26—How to save time through effective school business administration will be the problem for consideration at the second annual School Administrators' Institute to be held at State University Teachers College at New Paltz, August 4-6.

The theme was chosen by a group of school superintendents, principals, and board members of New York state who feel that streamlining the business end of public school operation will do much to free administrators for the important task of developing sound educational programs for children.

Outstanding authorities in the fields of finance, accounting, school insurance, and purchasing of supplies and equipment will act as leaders and consultants. Institute coordinator is Dr. William J. Hagney, supervising principal of the Haldane Central School, Cold Spring, who is a visiting member of the New Paltz summer faculty.

The three-day institute will be held in the new College Union on the New Paltz campus. Wives of administrators who attend will participate in a program of informal social activities.

Suitor Kills Man, Injures Companion
New York, July 26 (AP)—A 40-year-old man was stabbed to death and his woman companion seriously injured today.

Police said the woman identified the attacker as a rejected suitor of her sister but gave no motive for the stabbing.

The slain man, identified as William Smithwhite, was visiting in the Harlem apartment of Willie Mae Vaughan, 33, when the attacker climbed through a window and stabbed them, police said.

Miss Vaughan told officers the assailant was Leonard Tucker, 37, and that she believed he came to the apartment seeking her sister, Beatrice Slater. Police sent out an alarm for Tucker. All involved are Negroes.

Kills Brother
Bloomington, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—A Paterson, N. J., man shot and killed his brother here today during an argument and then fatally wounded himself, state police reported. Sgt. Herbert Berglund of the Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation said Milton Freeman, 29, of 34 Pearl street, Paterson, shot his brother, Floyd Freeman, Jr., 30, of Middletown, and himself while the two were visiting in the home of friends. Both were Negroes, Berglund said. Both men formerly were among enlisted personnel stationed at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point.

Four Are Killed In Car-Truck Crash
Pine Bluff, Ark., July 26 (AP)—A head-on truck-car crash near here late yesterday afternoon killed four persons and injured nine others—three critically.

Sheriff Allen Nixon said the accident involved a lumber truck and a sedan—with 12 people riding in it—about five miles west of here.

Nixon identified the dead as: Mr. and Mrs. Allen P. Ballard, Sr., Benton, Ark.; Mrs. A. P. Ballard, Jr., 32, Glencoe, N. Y.; and Mrs. Virgil L. Ballard, 30, Wichita, Kan., killed instantly.

The injured: Virgil Ballard, 27, Wichita, Kan. George Ballard, 4, Wichita, Kan. Carolyn and Charlotte Ballard, 1 and 5, respectively, daughters of Mrs. A. P. Ballard, Jr.

Mrs. Carl Ballard, North Little Rock, Ark., and her two children, Virginia and Linda, 9 and 6, respectively.

Floyd Nichols, 19, Negro, Moscow, Ark., driver of the truck.

Table Shows How Votes Shifted
Chicago, July 28 (AP)—This is how the votes shifted on the three ballots at the Democratic National Convention to nominate Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois as President:

|                 | 1st Ballot | 2nd Ballot | 3rd Ballot |
|-----------------|------------|------------|------------|
| Stevenson       | 273        | 324 1/2    | 617 1/2    |
| Kefauver        | 340        | 362 1/2    | 275 1/2    |
| Russell         | 268        | 294        | 261        |

| Fulbright       | 22         | .....      | .....      |
| Murray          | 12         | .....      | .....      |
| Justice Douglas | 1 1/2      | .....      | .....      |
| Not Voting      | .....      | 1 1/2      | 2          |

(There was no official explanation of why the total of the first two ballots added up to less than the total 1,230 votes at the convention.)

His Former Wife Will Vote GOP Not Stevenson

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—The Democratic party has handed its presidential standard to Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, but he begins his campaign forewarned of one vote he might not get—that of his former wife.

Attractive Ellen Borden Stevenson, wealthy Chicago socialite and mother of their three sons, said as the balloting began that she still intends to vote Republican in November—not for any personal reason but as a matter of political conviction.

But November is three months away.

And her mother, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter of Chicago and Beverly, Mass., gave a hint her daughter might change her mind.

Democrats In Too Long
She said that she and her daughter believe the Democrats have been in power long enough.

"We are in a great quandary at this moment," she continued.

Mrs. Stevenson's home on fashionable Astor street on Chicago's gold coast is but a block away from the William McCormick Blair home. It was at the Blair home that the governor watched the balloting on television. Mrs. Stevenson sent him a note. It read:

"Dear Adlai: Congratulations to the Democratic party for choosing the finest available Democrat for president. I know you will do your best for the American people. All good wishes to you personally."

She signed it "Ellen Borden Stevenson."

A divorce generally is considered a political strike against a candidate. Although the governor is not one to discuss his personal affairs, this may have been one reason for his reluctance to be the Democratic nominee for president.

Loveliest Debutant
Mrs. Stevenson, now 42, and a slim brunette, was regarded as one of Chicago's loveliest debutantes when she met Stevenson, then a rising young lawyer ten years her senior. Their marriage in 1928, shortly after her presentation at the court of St. James in London, was one of the season's most brilliant social events.

After 21 years of married life, she obtained a Nevada divorce in 1949—shortly after he took office as governor—on the grounds of mental cruelty. Stevenson did not contest the suit, but said then that he opposed divorce in general.

The three sons divide their vacation time between their parents. Two of them—John, 16, and Borden, 19—looked on as the wildly cheering convention hailed their dad as "the next president."

The third son, Adlai III, 21, like his mother, watched the stirring events on television. He is now in the Marine Corps and training at Quantico, Va.

Robert G. Adams Rotary Governor

Robert G. Adams

Robert G. Adams, a native of Kingston, who has been a member of the Palmyra-Riverton Rotary Club of New Jersey since 1934, has been chosen governor of the 272nd District of Rotary International. The district includes Atlantic City, N. J., Camden, N. J., Wilmington, Delaware and other large cities.

District Governor Adams was born June 17, 1899 in Kingston and attended school here. After completing his education at Temple University, he established the successful business which he now heads as president of Myrstone Products Company, manufacturers of concrete and steel products. Ben Adams, a brother of the newly chosen governor, was a member of the Kingston Rotary Club for a number of years.

During the past several years, the district governor has been active on the International Committee of the club and has developed an unusual bond of interest between members of his club and those of the Bahia Club of Brazil through an International Contacts Committee which he heads. Through attendance at the past 10 Rotary International Conventions throughout the world, he has had an unusual opportunity to gain insight into the duties of governor.

Widely participating in community affairs, he is on the boards of the YMCA and the Community Center and is representative of Rotary on the Tri-Boro Youth Council. He was a member of the Riverton Board of Education for six years. Active in the Calvary Presbyterian Church of Riverton, he is a member of the session. He is a Mason and belongs to the Sons of Revolution, Founders and Patriots of America, Franklin Institute and the Riverton Country Club.

UNCLE EF

In the old days when a man wanted a raise in pay, he'd fight with the boss for it—at least his wife told him to. Now he's got the problem of figuring out whether a fight with the boss is worth what he'll have left of the raise after the government takes its increased tax bite. © NEA

Stevenson, he wanted to pull out of the race with an endorsement of Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois. Douglas then would say he couldn't run and urge Stevenson's selection.

Their plan for quick action was balked, however, when House Speaker Sam Rayburn, chairman of the convention, told Kefauver he would have to wait until the third ballot roll call was completed before he could be heard.

As the roll call went tediously on, Sen. Russell hurried to the hall. He saw the inevitable result as one state delegation after another topped to Stevenson.

But Russell said he would stick to the end. And he wouldn't let his friends try to make any deal by which he could claim the vice presidential nomination.

All of this maneuvering was largely beside the point, for when New York and Michigan fell to Stevenson, the Illinois governor rolled up 613 votes—only 2 1/2 short of the necessary majority—by the end of the balloting.

It was then only a formality when Kefauver stepped up to the microphone to tell the delegates without actually moving to give Tennessee's votes to Stevenson—that they had nominated "a very great man" and to pledge his help in the general election campaign.

Moody and Williams had hoped a dramatic statement by Kefauver that he was withdrawing in Stevenson's favor would fire the convention to pick the Tennessee senator as the vice presidential candidate.

Moody and Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota talked later of trying to sponsor a floor fight in today's session to get Kefauver in the running for the No. 2 spot. But few thought convention delegates, tired after a strenuous week, would have much enthusiasm for more wrangling.

They seemed more likely to accept Stevenson's choice, call it a day and go home.

Russell Speaks
After Kefauver spoke, Russell was summoned to the platform. Calling Stevenson "a great American," Russell promised to "fall into the ranks, seeking victory in November."

His remarks were regarded as significant since there had been talk of a southern bolt in November if Dixie members were displeased with the nominee or the platform.

While the southerners didn't like the platform's call for action on civil rights legislation, they seemed to be relatively satisfied with the choice of Stevenson.

However, Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina declined to comment on the convention's action. Byrnes was one of the holdouts against the party's new loyalty pledge.

When a reporter asked him what he thought of Stevenson's nomination, Byrnes replied with a grin: "Good morning."

Retains Key Post

Tehran, Iran, July 26 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadeq presented his new cabinet to the Shah today retaining for himself the key post of minister of war. The post gives him life and death control over the armed forces and the final decision on maintaining a U. S. military mission on Iranian soil. The aged and ailing premier now wields more power than ever before. He had resigned July 16 when Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi refused to appoint him to head the war ministry.

Utica 'Hit' Again

Utica, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—This industrial center of 100,000—first upstate city to defend against a mythical Al-Bahlai—was "hit" by another of the mock missiles today. Walling sirens at 8:50 a. m. (EDT) brought civil defense units on the double from Oneida, Herkimer and Oswego counties. The all-clear came 10 minutes later.

Papers Are Served Seeking New Trial For Edward Kelly

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn was served today with papers in the Edward H. Kelly, first degree murder case, by which the defendant's counsel seeks a new trial under the provisions of Section 463, Subdivision 7, claiming that a new trial evidence can be produced which will change the verdict of the jury. The motion for a new trial is returnable before County Judge John M. Cashin on Wednesday, July 30.

Judge Cashin now on vacation will be absent on that date and it is expected the matter will be adjourned by consent until August 5. The application for a new trial is made by Whitman Knapp, who with Howard C. St. John appeared for Kelly on the second trial of the case.

Kelly stands convicted of murder, first degree, for the rifle slaying of Mrs. Elsie McHugh, 44, of Kingston on May 22, 1950, and is now in the death house at Sing Sing prison awaiting execution some time during the week of August 25.

An application for clemency has been made and will be heard by Governor Dewey on August 18. The Court of Appeals has affirmed the conviction of the second trial after sending the case back for retrial on the grounds of a technical error made at the first trial when that jury also found the defendant guilty.

The defendant's counsel made the present move for a new trial on the grounds that a psychologist at the prison who examined the defendant in February 1952, in his report stated that the defendant "could have" been suffering from "involuntary psychosis" at the time of the act but had since made a recovery.

At the trial the defendant alleged that he did not know what he was doing at the time of the shooting or for some time prior to the act. The expert called by the defense at the trial expressed an opinion that the defendant had been suffering from such a lapse of memory but the jury, after hearing that testimony from the defendant's expert medical witness, found the defendant guilty.

Shocks Continue

Tehachapi, Calif., July 26 (AP)—Aftershocks from Monday's big earthquake continue to shake southern California. A series of three shocks yesterday, one of them equal in intensity to the 1933 Long Beach disaster, caused two landslides in the Caliente creek area 35 miles east of Bakersfield. One slide damaged a pickup truck in which three men were riding, but they escaped injury. Two houses in the area were damaged. Sheriff's deputies evacuated four persons from their homes. No injuries were reported.

Mustering Out Pay

Washington, July 26 (AP)—First mustering out pay checks for about 500,000 army veterans of the Korean War period will be mailed from the Army Finance Center, St. Louis, Mo., about Aug. 15. The army announced yesterday that qualified veterans who have left the service since June 27, 1950, should apply to the finance center for the bonus payments authorized by Congress, including their separation forms with their applications.

Rhee Consents

Pusan, Korea, July 26 (AP)—South Korean President Syngman Rhee will stand for re-election on Aug. 7. He made no public statement, but today gave consent to his nomination by the Liberal party by fixing his seal to a legal statement of candidacy.

Truman Flies Home

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—President Truman and his official party took off for Kansas City in his plane, "The Independence," at 9:06, Eastern Standard Time, today from Municipal Airport. Included in the President's party was secretary of the treasury, John W. Snyder.

Local Death Record

Alfred Schramm
The funeral of Alfred Schramm, 43 DeWitt field Friday, at 2 o'clock from the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 27 Smith avenue. Services were conducted by the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, D.D., pastor of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church. While the body reposed in the funeral home many floral pieces were received. Burial was in Hurley Cemetery where the committal services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Gollnick. Bearers were William Burger, John Woinoski, John Dermody, Edwin Hanley, William Wolfel and George Loughran.

Charles M. Schiskey
Charles M. Schiskey, of 143 Spring street, a retired mason, died Friday after a long illness. He was employed in the cement mills of Eddyville in his youth and later was a mason by trade. Besides his wife, Mary Trice Schiskey, he leaves a sister, Anna Schiskey of Janelly, several nieces and nephews and a step-nephew, Henry Trice, who had lived with the deceased all his life. The funeral will be held from the James M. Murphy Funeral Home Tuesday at 9 a. m., thence to St. Peter's Church, where a high Mass of requiem will be offered at 9:30 a. m. Burial will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Card of Thanks
We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy during the illness and at the time of the death of Domenico T. Gallo.

Robert G. Adams Rotary Governor

Robert G. Adams

Robert G. Adams, a native of Kingston, who has been a member of the Palmyra-Riverton Rotary Club of New Jersey since 1934, has been chosen governor of the 272nd District of Rotary International. The district includes Atlantic City, N. J., Camden, N. J., Wilmington, Delaware and other large cities.

District Governor Adams was born June 17, 1899 in Kingston and attended school here. After completing his education at Temple University, he established the successful business which he now heads as president of Myrstone Products Company, manufacturers of concrete and steel products. Ben Adams, a brother of the newly chosen governor, was a member of the Kingston Rotary Club for a number of years.

During the past several years, the district governor has been active on the International Committee of the club and has developed an unusual bond of interest between members of his club and those of the Bahia Club of Brazil through an International Contacts Committee which he heads. Through attendance at the past 10 Rotary International Conventions throughout the world, he has had an unusual opportunity to gain insight into the duties of governor.

Widely participating in community affairs, he is on the boards of the YMCA and the Community Center and is representative of Rotary on the Tri-Boro Youth Council. He was a member of the Riverton Board of Education for six years. Active in the Calvary Presbyterian Church of Riverton, he is a member of the session. He is a Mason and belongs to the Sons of Revolution, Founders and Patriots of America, Franklin Institute and the Riverton Country Club.

NEW PALTZ

School Leaders To Hold Second Annual Meeting

New Paltz, July 26—How to save time through effective school business administration will be the problem for consideration at the second annual School Administrators' Institute to be held at State University Teachers College at New Paltz, August 4-6.

The theme was chosen by a group of school superintendents, principals, and board members of New York state who feel that streamlining the business end of public school operation will do much to free administrators for the important task of developing sound educational programs for children.

Outstanding authorities in the fields of finance, accounting, school insurance, and purchasing of supplies and equipment will act as leaders and consultants. Institute coordinator is Dr. William J. Hagny, supervisor in charge of the Haldane Central School, Cold Spring, who is a visiting member of the New Paltz summer faculty.

The three-day institute will be held in the new College Union on the new Paltz campus. Wives of the administrators who attend will participate in a program of informal social activities.

Suitor Kills Man, Injures Companion

New York, July 26 (AP)—A 40-year-old man was stabbed to death and his woman companion seriously injured early today.

Police said the woman identified the attacker as a rejected suitor of her sister but gave no motive for the stabbing.

The slain man, identified as William Braithwaite, was visiting in the Harlem apartment of Willie Mae Vaughan, 33, when the attacker climbed through a window and stabbed them, police said.

Miss Vaughan told officers the assailant was Leonard Tucker, 37, and that she believed he came to the apartment seeking her sister, Beatrice Slater. Police sent out an alarm for Tucker. All involved are Negroes.

Weather Picture Good

New York, July 26 (AP)—Clear, pleasant weather will continue today in the New York metropolitan area, but the Weather Bureau said it might not prevail over the entire weekend. The highest temperature yesterday was 81.7 in mid-afternoon and the humidity stayed around 40 per cent. Today was expected to be somewhat warmer, with a high in the mid-80's.

It has been estimated there are 150 or more locks of various kinds in a modern home.

Table Shows How Votes Shifted

Chicago, July 28 (AP)—This is how the votes shifted on the three ballots at the Democratic National Convention to nominate Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois as President:

|                 | 1st Ballot | 2nd Ballot | 3rd Ballot |
|-----------------|------------|------------|------------|
| Stevenson       | 273        | 324½       | 617½       |
| Kefauver        | 340        | 362½       | 275½       |
| Russell         | 268        | 294        | 261        |
| Barkley         | 48½        | 78½        | 67½        |
| Dever           | 27½        | 30½        | 3          |
| Sen. Douglas    | 4          | 3          | 3          |
| Harriman        | 123½       | 121        | .....      |
| Truman          | 6          | 6          | .....      |
| Kerr            | 65         | 5½         | .....      |
| Humphrey        | 26         | .....      | .....      |
| Fulbright       | 22         | .....      | .....      |
| Murray          | 12         | .....      | .....      |
| Justice Douglas | ½          | .....      | .....      |
| Not Voting      | .....      | 1½         | 2          |

There was no official explanation of why the total of the first two ballots added up to less than the total 1,230 votes at the convention.

His Former Wife Will Vote GOP Not Stevenson

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—The Democratic party has handed its presidential standard to Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, but he begins his campaign forewarned of one vote he might not get—that of his former wife.

Attractive Ellen Borden Stevenson, wealthy Chicago socialite and mother of their three sons, said as the balloting began that she still intends to vote Republican in November—not for any personal reason but as a matter of political conviction.

But November is three months away.

And her mother, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter of Chicago and Beverly, Mass., gave a hint her daughter might change her mind.

Democrats In Too Long
She said that she and her daughter believe the Democrats have been in power long enough.

We are in a great quandary at this moment," she continued. Mrs. Stevenson's home on fashionable Astor street on Chicago's gold coast is but a block away from the William McCormick Blair home. It was at the Blair home that the governor watched the balloting on television. Mrs. Stevenson sent him a note. It read:

"Dear Adlai: Congratulations to the Democratic party for choosing the finest available Democrat for president. I know you will do your best for the American people. All good wishes to you personally."

She signed it "Ellen Borden Stevenson."

A divorce generally is considered a political strike against a candidate. Although the governor is not one to discuss his personal affairs, this may have been one reason for his reluctance to be the Democratic nominee for president.

Loveliest Debutant
Mrs. Stevenson, now 42, and a slim brunette, was regarded as one of Chicago's loveliest debutantes when she met Stevenson, then a rising young lawyer ten years her senior. Their marriage in 1928, shortly after her presentation at the court of St. James in London, was one of the season's most brilliant social events.

After 21 years of married life, she obtained a Nevada divorce in 1949—shortly after he took office as governor—on the grounds of mental cruelty. Stevenson did not contest the suit, but said then that he opposed divorce in general.

The three sons divide their vacation time between their parents. Two of them—John Fell, 16, and Borden, 19—looked on as the wildly cheering convention hailed their dad as "the next president."

The third son, Adlai III, 21, like his mother, watched the stirring events on television. He is now in the Marine Corps and training at Quantico, Va.

Four Are Killed In Car-Truck Crash

Pine Bluff, Ark., July 26 (AP)—A head-on truck-car crash near here late yesterday afternoon killed four persons and injured nine others—three critically.

Sheriff Allen Nixon said the accident involved a lumber truck and a sedan—with 12 people riding it—about five miles west of here.

Nixon identified the dead as: Mrs. Mrs. Allen P. Ballard, Sr., Benton, Ark.; Mrs. A. P. Ballard, Jr., 32, Glencoe, N. Y.; and Mrs. Virgil L. Ballard, 30, Wichita, Kan., killed instantly.

The injured: Virgil Ballard, 27, Wichita, Kan.; George Ballard, 4, Wichita, Kan.; Virgil L. Ballard, Jr., 6, Wichita, Kan.

Carolyn and Charlotte Ballard, 1 and 5, respectively, daughters of Mrs. A. P. Ballard, Jr.

Mrs. Carl Day, North Little Rock, Ark., and her two children, Virginia and Linda, 9 and 6, respectively.

Floyd Nichols, 19, Negro, Moscow, Ark., driver of the truck.

Kills Brother

Blooming Grove, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—A Paterson, N. J., man shot and killed his brother here today during an argument and then fatally wounded himself, state police reported. Sgt. Herbert Berglund of the Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation said Milton Freeman, 29, of 34 Pearl street, Paterson, shot his brother, Floyd Freeman, Jr., 30, of Middletown, and himself while the two were visiting in the home of friends. Both men formerly were among enlisted personnel stationed at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point.

UNCLE EF

In the old days when a man wanted a raise in pay, he'd fight with the boss for it—at least his wife told him to. Now he's got the problem of figuring out whether a fight with the boss is worth what he'll have left of the raise after the government takes its increased tax bite. © NEA

Stevenson, he wanted to pull out of the race with an endorsement of Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois. Douglas then would say he couldn't run and urge Stevenson's selection.

Their plan for quick action was balked, however, when House Speaker Sam Rayburn, chairman of the convention, told Kefauver he would have to wait until the third ballot roll call was completed before he could be heard. As the roll call went tediously on, Sen. Russell hurried to the hall. He saw the inevitable result as one state delegation after another toppled to Stevenson.

But Russell said he would stick to the end. And he wouldn't let his friends try to make any deal by which he could claim the vice presidential nomination.

All of this maneuvering was largely beside the point, for when New York and Michigan fell to Stevenson, the Illinois governor rolled up 613 votes—only 2½ short of the necessary majority—by the end of the balloting.

It was then only a formality when Kefauver stepped up to the microphone to tell the delegates—without actually giving a Tennessee vote to Stevenson—that they had nominated "a very great man" and to pledge his help in the general election campaign.

Moody and Williams had hoped a dramatic statement by Kefauver that he was withdrawing in Stevenson's favor would fire the convention to pick the Tennessee senator as the vice presidential candidate.

Moody and Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota talked later of trying to sponsor a floor fight in today's session to get Kefauver in the running for the No. 2 spot. But few thought convention delegates, tired after a strenuous week, would have much enthusiasm for more wrangling. They seemed more likely to accept Stevenson's choice, call it a day and go home.

Russell Speaks
After Kefauver spoke, Russell was summoned to the platform.

Calling "Stevenson a great American," Russell promised to "fall into the ranks, seeking victory in November."

His remarks were regarded as significant since there had been talk of a southern bolt in November if Dixie members were displeased with the nominee or the platform.

While the southerners didn't like the platform's call for action on civil rights legislation, they seemed to be relatively satisfied with the choice of Stevenson.

However, Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina declined to comment on the convention's action. Byrnes was one of the holdouts against the party's new loyalty pledge.

When a reporter asked him what he thought of Stevenson's nomination, Byrnes replied with a grin: "Good morning."
